40 OCCUPANTS OF APARTMENT SAVED IN FIRE

Cabman Gives Warning in $50,000 Rhode Island Avenue Blaze.

SLEEPING RESIDENTS FLEE PARTLY CLAD

4-Story Structure Damaged as Alarm Is Delayed; Janitor Sought.

More than a dozen families are homeless and a janitor is being sought as the result of a fire which wrecked the interior of the Alzarado, a four-story apartment house at 70 Rhode Island avenue northwest, early yesterday morning.

The fire, of undetermined origin, broke out in the basement of the building and gained an hour's headway before the first alarm was sent in at 4:37 a. m. Four other alarms followed in rapid succession. The damage was estimated at $50,000.

Occupants of the building were awakened by a taxicab driver, whose identity was not learned, before the first engine arrived, and men, women and children jumped from windows and scampered down the fire escapes, some in nothing but pajamas and in bare feet, others with only coats and slippers for protection.

Two Held and Janitor Sought.

A 6-month-old baby was lifted in its crib by a frantic father and carried from the burning building. An elderly woman, after jumping from a first-floor window, ran in bare feet and night clothes up the icy street and leaped into a passing taxicab. Parents threw their children from windows to waiting arms. Hysterical screams mingled with the roar of the flames. The roof crashed in a few minutes after the last occupants had escaped.

The janitor, William McKinley Scott, colored, was missing after the fire was under control and a check had been made of the residents. His 27-year-old wife and James Talmadge Nesbitt, colored, 37, an assistant janitor, both of whom lived in the house, were placed under arrest by Second Precinct police and held for investigation. Nesbitt was later released. The woman was held at the House of Detention with her two small children pending the discovery of Scott.

She told police that her husband returned home at 2 a. m., but was uncertain whether he went out again.

Alarm Is Delayed.

After a thorough search of the ruined building, police and firemen were convinced that Scott had not lost his life in the fire. Search for the man was still being made last night.

An idea as to just what time the fire started is expected to be obtained through questioning of a milkman who had made a delivery at the building. The milkman had not been located last night.

A small crowd stood on the street watching the flame-enshrouded building for some time, waiting expectantly for the arrival of fire engines, before realization came that possibly the alarm had not been sent in. Edmond Salsa, of 74 T street northwest, then dashed to a fire box pulled the Residence at Forestville Destroyed While Couple See Herndon Show.

While Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Groves watched a moving picture at the Herndon, Va., theater Saturday night, their home at Forestville, Va., burned to the ground. They returned to find their belongings and two-story house a mass of smouldering ruins.

The blaze was discovered by a neighbor, Frank Van Patten, shortly before 9 o'clock. He rushed to the Groves home, smashed a window and made his way to a telephone in a first-floor hallway. His efforts to attract the attention of the operator were futile, and the flames finally drove him from the building.

Van Patten ran nearly a half mile to spread the alarm, as he had no telephone in his own home. When the first fire engine arrived, after a run of 7 miles, the blaze was beyond control. Other companies, responding from Herndon, Falls Church, McLean and Vienna, were forced to center their attention toward saving a number of outhouses. The fire apparently originated in the basement. Mr. Groves said the damage exceeded $8,500.

Washington Mission Is Crowded as Homeless Rush for Shelter.

Two More Perish in New York as Temperature Drops to 12.

As the mercury started its downward trend with the apparent object in view of equaling its unpopular mark of 18 degrees recorded yesterday morning, the Central Union Mission at 613 C street northwest, one of the largest of its type in the city, was filled to overflowing last night as insufficiently clothed, jobless men sought a haven from the autumnal preview of winter by Jack Frost.

The extremely low mark of 18 degrees was recorded at 7 o'clock in the morning, while the highest mark was 32 degrees at 4 p. m. On November 27, 1931, the lowest temperature was 35 degrees, while the highest was 41 degrees.

At 10:30 o'clock last night, officials of the mission, which has a bedding capacity of 200, were in a quandry as to what to do with the steady flow of destitute men who entered its portals. They could not be turned back into the cold night, so they did the best thing possible and placed the shivering, unemployed on the hard bare floor with such covering as could be garnered from the store-

Cambridge, Md., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Lost in the marsh country of the Eastern Shore, where they had gone hunting yesterday afternoon, a boy and his father were frozen to death before their bodies were found about daybreak this morning.

The dead are William MacKnight, 65, manager of the American Stores Co. cannery at Hurlock, Md., and Thomas MacKnight, 18.

Another of MacKnight's sons, Samuel, 15, who was with them, was in a serious condition at a local hospital here today suffering from the exposure. He is expecetd to live.

The three MacKnights and a companion started hunting shortly after noon yesterday in the Drawbridge, Md., section. The companion became cold and returned to a nearby town to get warm. When the MacKnights did not appear by 1:30 a. m. this morning the fourth man solicited aid and began the search which culminated in the finding of the two dead men and Samuel alive about daybreak.

At Hurlock, it was said, the thermometer registered 15 degrees last

PAIR TRUSS CLERK, LOOT CIGAR STORE

$215 Taken While Theater Crowds Pass Schulte's at 15th and G.

A premonition that he was about to be held up failed to save a clerk in the A. Schulte Cigar Store, at Fifteenth and G streets northwest, from being slugged and robbed of $215 last night by two armed bandits, who complacently went about their task while after-theater crowds passed the door.

Arthur B. Snyder, 44 years old, of 1336 East Capitol street, the clerk, looked with suspicion upon two well-dressed men, about 25 years old, who walked into the store near closing time.

They asked to see a "ladies' lighter."

Just then two more customers, a young man and a girl, came in and Snyder served them. "I asked the young man to stay in the place, because I was suspicious of the two men. He didn't pay any attention to what I said and left."

Snyder then went to the other counter. "Stick 'em up," one of them said, and at the same time struck Snyder over the left eye with the butt of a gun.

They then bound his hands and feet. One of them shoved a gun into

Fort Coronel Bogado Claimed by Paraguay

Asuncion, Paraguay, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The ministry of war issued a bulletin today which said Paraguayan troops had occupied Fort Coronel Bogado in the Gran Chaco battle area, where they are opposing Bolivian forces. Recent fighting in the Gran Chaco has been concentrated in the vicinity of Fort Saavedra, about midway between Fort Boqueron and the Pilcomayo River.

La Paz, Bolivia, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A government announcement today said all was quiet on the Gran Chaco front, where Bolivian and Paraguayan forces are contesting for possession of that territory.

CONDITION OF FORD HELD SATISFACTORY

Passes Favorable Day, Says Doctors' Bulletin; Crisis Believed Near.

Detroit, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A bulletin issued at 4:30 p. m. at Ford Hospital said Henry Ford, operated upon yesterday for a strangulated femoral hernia, had "passed a favorable day."

The bulletin read:

"Mr. Henry Ford passed a favorable day; his pulse is 72 and his temperature is 100. His physicians state that during the hernia operation yesterday, his appendix was removed and they are satisfied with his condition."

This bulletin was the first definite statement from hospital authorities that the multimillionaire motor car manufacturer's appendix was removed in the operation, which was performed at 5 p. m. yesterday by Dr. Roy D. McClure, chief surgeon at Ford Hospital. A spokesman for Mr. Ford today had said that the tip of the appendix was involved, but it had been revealed by other sources that the appendix had been removed, as well as the correction of the strangulated hernia condition.

Likewise, the information in the bulletin concerning the pulse and temperature of the wealthy patient was the first of that nature officially given during the day. The only other

Stock Losses Are Heavy In Scotch Snowstorm

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Swept by a fierce storm over the week-end, both highlands and lowlands of Scotland were buried in a blanket of snow today and many sheep were believed to have perished in drifts.

The gale was so violent the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Richmond dragged at its anchor at Greenock and a tug with 50 passengers had to put back to shore until late today. The passengers spent Saturday night ashore.

DRYS TO GATHER NEXT MONTH TO PLAN PROGRAM

"Resist Repeal Rallies" Open to Public Also Are Planned.

4-DAY CONVENTION TO OPEN DECEMBER 9

Modification Legality Seen Hinging on How Congress Approaches Question.

(Associated Press.)

Officials of the Antisaloon League of America will assemble here next month to frame a program of oposition to changes in the prohibition laws.

O. G. Christgau, manager of the December 9 to 12 convention, also announced yesterday that "resist repeal rallies" open to the general public are planned in addition to official meetings and conferences.

The national board of trustees and the executive committee, he said, "will consider the status of the movement for prohibition repeal and modification of the Volstead act and decide upon a course of action to be followed by the league."

Bishop E. G. Richardson, of Philadelphia, president of the Antisaloon League, will preside at the trustees meeting. Dr. Arthus J. Barton, of Wilmington, N. C., is chairman of the executive committee.

To Confer With McBride.

"During each forenoon except Sunday while the convention is in session," the announcement said, "General Superintendent F. Scott McBride will confer with State superintendents and other league officials relative to details involved in the campaign of the drys to resist repeal.

"Each superintendent will report on the attitude of the congressional delegation from his State on repeal proposals and beer bills. A definite program of unified action with reference to Congress in the 1934 campaign will be adopted during the conferences."

Listed as speakers were Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, Washington; Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire, Fred B. Perkins, Providence, R. I.; P. H. Callahan, Louisville, Ky.; Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, Westerville, Ohio; Mrs. Ella A. Boole, Brooklyn; Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of the Federal Prohibition Bureau; Bishop James Cannon, jr., Dr. Melbourne P. Boynton, Chicago; Dr. Clarence True Wilson, and Sergt. Alvin York, Jamestown, Tenn., war hero.

City Gets Glimpse Of Mrs. Roosevelt

She Stops Six Minutes on Flight to New York From Georgia.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt stopped for just six minutes yesterday in the Capital, where she will come to live after March 4.

En route by plane from Warm Springs, Ga., to New York, the wife of the President-elect, whom she left behind at the Georgia resort, was grounded at the Washington-Hoover Airport only during the brief operating stop of the commercial airplane. She was accompanied by Col. Louis M. Howe, adviser to Gov. Roosevelt, and two other members of her party. After strong headwinds had delayed progress an hour on the trip from Atlanta, Mrs. Roosevelt was given a special plane at Richmond, Va.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President-elect, stepped from a passenger airplane at Newark Airport tonight and said she had had a "fine trip." The plane was an hour and five minutes late. It was forced to buck heavy headwinds most of the way. A cold wind swept the field when the party alighted.

Parked Car Is Stolen And Burned by Thieves

Police last night were searching for vandals, who, after driving off in the automobile of David C. Gerdan, parked in front of his home at 4630 Fessendan street northwest, abandoned it at Forty-sixth and Van Ness street northwest, after tossing a match in the gas tank.

The machine was destroyed.

The Post Toy Fund Takes Big Jump Over Week-End

Total Sum Now $65.80; Two Turtles Join List of Contributors.

The Post Toy and Doll Fund took a real step forward over the week-end.

Not only were there a number of inquiries as to the sending of toys and the interesting of friends in gathering toys for the fund, but $13.50 was contributed, boosting the fund to $65.80. Of course, that is only a small part of what is needed and what is expected to be raised through this means. The officials in charge of the fund, especially the Santa Claus Lady, who is an incurable optimist, believe that the fund, if it keeps up its present rate of speed, will pass the first hundred dollar mark tonight and before the week is over will be well on the way to the first thousand dollars.

Another important step in the development of the fund came yesterday in the volunteering by the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners to clean all the used rag dolls and wooly dogs and teddy bears and similar joy-giving inanimate pets that are contributed to the fund. In countless homes in the Capital, doubtless, there are such gifts that have gladdened the hearts of young recipients but now have become soiled from long play in dirty childish hands. No doubt their young owners or the owners' fathers and mothers would like to donate them to the toy fund, but hesitate to do so because of the soiled appearance. Now, thanks to the offer by the Association of Dyers and Cleaners, all such gifts can be renovated and cleaned and made spick and span, ready to

SANDINO'S REBELS MENACE HONDURAS

Capital Somewhat Relieved After Forces Withdraw; Shut in Two Days.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Nov. (delayed in transmission) (A.P.).—Citizens of this city, who have been on the verge of panic and shut in their homes for two days because of threats of attacks by rebels, were somewhat relieved tonight.

It was learned that two forces of rebels, led by Liberal party adherents who were defeated in the recent election, had passed on or withdrawn from the vicinity and that four nearby fortifications were strongly garrisoned by loyal troops.

Reports from reliable sources said 600 followers of Gen. Augustino Sandino, the Nicaraguan rebel, who is believed in sympathy with the revolt here, invaded the southeastern corner of Honduras near San Marcos. Another group of 300 was reported operating in the Danli district against the Honduras government.

Loyal troops under Gen. Jose Leon Castro were reported to have recaptured the town of Octotepeque today. There were no details of casualties. It was also announced that loyal troops were about to attack Gen. Umana's main rebel army near Santa Rosa.

When attacks on Tegucigalpa appeared threatening, the government, Nationalist party and President-elect Carias hurriedly took the necessary measures toward defense.

Rebels who came within two miles of the city, near San Felipe Hospital, Friday afternoon, withdrew later toward Montata, about four miles away. Another rebel column under Gen. Chincilla, nearing Tegucigalpa over the north coast highroad, also withdrew during the night.

There was sporadic shooting all Friday night around the city's fortifications.

50 Boston Hunger Marchers on Way

Woman Leader Seized by U. S. and Then Truck Breaks Down.

Boston, Nov. 27 (U.P.).—A group of 50 "hunger marchers" started from Boston Common for Washington today, but left one of their number in the hands of Federal authorities, who contemplated deportation proceedings.

At a demonstration which preceded the "march," Anna Block, one of the leaders, was arrested at the request of Mrs. Anna Tillinghast, immigration commissioner, and turned over to Federal authorities.

The group started for Washington in an automobile and three trucks, but one of the trucks developed trouble before the city limits had been reached and was abandoned. Luncheon was served at Norwood's Finnish Hall. They planned to spend the night at Providence, R. I.

Debris of Missing Lake Ship Found

South Shore's Pilothouse Reported Picked Up Off Frankfort.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Radio advices to the Coast Guard headquarters here today reported that the pilot house of the missing motor freighter South Shore had been picked up in Lake Michigan off Frankfort. The vessel, with a cargo of potatoes, has been missing since it left Garden, Mich., for Milwaukee. Capt. Erwin Tonokin and Engineer Ahlstrom were aboard.

The radio reports also said that, in addition to the pilot house, several sacks of potatoes were picked up.

The South Shore, a 61-foot tug, belonging to W. J. Lawrie, of Milwaukee, has been unreported since November 19, when it set out for Milwaukee, a run that ordinarily requires but 30 hours.

BRITISH DEBT ANSWER TO AMERICA MAY BEAR SECRET INFORMATION

Europe's Hopes Puzzling

State Department Unable to Understand Optimism Abroad in Face of Refusals to Grant Extension of Debts Moratorium; Next Move Awaited.

(Associated Press.)

European optimism that an extension of the moratorium on war debts will be forthcoming has State Department officials puzzled as they await the next move from abroad.

The administration is at a loss to understanding press dispatches from London and continental capitals indicating a belief prevails in high official circles that some means will be found to postpone the December 15 payments due the United States, despite the polite refusals that already have been sent to Europe.

The replies of the American Government to the requests of Great Britain, France, Belgium, Poland and Czechoslovakia for an extension of time on the war dept payments due next month were uniformly negative and made it clear that Congress alone could alter the debt agreements.

However, the European governments apparently still regard the payments as open to negotiations in spite of Secretary Stimson's statement that "no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the Congress for favorable consideration."

In the face of the explanation in all the notes that the Chief Executive is without authority to modify debt agreements and that from Congress, where this power is lodged, repeated expressions of opposition to the moratorium have been heard. Europe has indicated that it has not accepted the decision as final.

Cabinet Leaders Confer With MacDonald.

REPLY TODAY HELD LIKELY

Decision on Paying Is Not to Be Made at This Time.

London, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Drafting of the new British war debt note to Washington was begun tonight at a special meeting of cabinet members with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer; Sir John Simon, foreign minister, and Stanley Baldwin participated in the conference. A full meeting of the cabinet probably will be held tomorrow morning to discuss the note.

The document may be dispatched tomorrow afternoon or Tuesday, but it is suggested in some quarters that publication may be indefinitely delayed because of delicate secret information which it may contain. The new memorandum is expected in informed quarters to set forth the British financial position in detail and to indicate, if it does not directly state, reasons why the mid-December British war debt installment of $95,500,000 should be postponed.

Decision Is Not Made.

It was emphasized tonight in semi-official quarters that decision of whether to pay or not to pay is not being made at this time, for the government feels that Washington is still open to negotiation.

The government is represented as regarding the Stimson answer to the original British request for postponement of the December installment as an invitation to present further facts and an exhaustive study of the subject.

It was generally understood that the British government will keep the French government acquainted with its acts in view of the agreement reached between the two last summer not to take steps in matters "similar to those settled at Lausanne without a frank exchange of views with each other with complete candor."

Slaying of Peruvians Is Denied by Colombia

Bogota, Colombia, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The ministry of war emphatically denied a report published in the newspaper El Pais today that 65 Peruvians were slain when they attempted to capture the Colombian base of El Encanto Oncaraparana, 7 miles from the Putumayo River.

There have been unconfirmed reports of fighting between Peruvian and Colombian forces since the occupation of Leticia, upper Amazon River port, last September 1, by Peruvians. The Putumayo is a tributary of the upper Amazon. Leticia was ceded to Colombia under the boundary treaty of 1922.

M'DUFFIE ENTERS SPEAKERSHIP RACE

Democratic Whip Announces He Would Form Steering Group If Chosen.

(Associated Press.)

Representative John McDuffie, of Alabama, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Speakership in the Seventy-third Congress.

The Democratic whip is the fourth to enter the race for the post to be vacated by Speaker Garner when he becomes Vice President on March 4. The others are Representatives Rainey, of Illinois; Byrns, of Tennessee, and Rankin, of Mississippi.

If elected, McDuffie said he would create a steering committee to be composed of members from every section of the country in order that he could obtain their counsel in shaping the Democratic legislative policies and program. The Democrats have never had a steering committee, although the Republicans followed the practice for many years.

"Democratic friends from every section of the country," McDuffie said, "both in and out of Congress, have been good enough to suggest that I become a candidate for Speaker of the Seventy-third Congress. At the proper time I shall permit my name to be presented to the party caucus as a candidate for that high and very responsible position.

"Should I be elected I will seek advice and counsel through the creation

Tanks Called to Halt Rail Rioting in Harbin

London, Nov. 27 (U.P.).—Detachments of cavalry and tanks have been called out in Harbin, Manchuria, as a result of disturbances among discharged employes of the South Manchurian Railway, an Exchange Telegraph Agency dispatch said today.

The discharged employes besieged the offices of the railway board, threatening violence against the directors in revenge for unpaid pensions, the dispatch said.

U. S. MAY HELP END MANCHURIA DISPUTE

Collaboration With Soviet as Arbiters to Be Urged at Geneva.

Geneva, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The United States and Soviet Russia would be invited to assign representatives to a "committee of conciliation" which would attempt to settle the Sino-Japanese controversy in Manchuria under plans being formulated today by leaders of the League of Nations.

This procedure, as now envisaged, would be recommended when the special assembly of the league meets next week. The conciliation committee would consist of the assembly's committee of nineteen and American and Russian delegates. Its first meeting is proposed for about January 10.

It was said in reliable quarters that officials of Soviet Russia have indicated provisional approval of the plan.

It was pointed out that the Lytton commission's report on the Manchurian issue recognized the importance of Russian and American interests in any settlement of the Far Eastern question.

It was expected the league council, at its meeting tomorrow, would refer the Lytton report to the special assembly after receiving the Japanese reservations.

The question of whether the United States would be willing to join with the league in attempting settlement

Los Angeles, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, wife of Senator-elect McAdoo and youngest daughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson, was under observation in a Los Angeles hospital tonight preliminary to a possible operation for appendicitis.

If an operation is deemed advisable, it was stated, it probably will be performed next Tuesday. Physicians said she was resting comfortably and her condition was not serious.

Oyster Navies of 2 States To Join in War on Poaching

Virginia Answers Maryland Plea for Aid Against Bold Raiders; Situation Brought to Climax by Shots Fired at Deputies by Violators.

Baltimore, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Aroused by the activities of bold raiders who have been violating the Maryland oyster laws and who recently fired on State deputies, Swepson Earle, State conservation commissioner, today set out on the State steamer Dupont, flagship of the Maryland oyster navy, to personally conduct a war against the invaders.

At the same time, in response to urgent messages from Mr. Earle, the Virginia oyster navy, as well as that State's commissioner of fisheries, Richard Armstrong, are heading for Swan Point, Md., where the Marylander is to set up an operations base for his campaign. The vessels and State fisheries chiefs are expected to meet at Swan Point Tuesday to map out their plans and discuss the situation.

The dual action planned by the two State officers resulted from the following messages which have passed between them since Thanksgiving:

The first, sent to the Virginian by Earle on Friday, read:

"Serious situation has developed on Potomac River. Since opening of oyster season our Potomac River force, in cooperation with your deputies, has held down handscraping to the minimum by night patroling. Recently one of our deputies was fired on at night, and we are arranging to build a blockhouse on shore at Swan Point. Yesterday some 50-odd boats from Virginia and Maryland, between Cobb and Swan Points, started scraping for oysters in defiance of law, and when our boats captured one of these men a number of them opened up with rifles and shotguns. Evidently small patrol boats can not cope with the situation that now exists. I am ar-

HOUSE CHIEFS PUSH PLANS FOR REPEAL

Garner Wants Vote Opening Day So Legislatures Can Speed Action.

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic House leaders went forward yesterday with plans for speedy action on both repeal and beer legislation before the Congressional Christmas holidays beginning about December 20.

Speaker Garner is determined to have a vote on a repeal resolution the day Congress meets a week away. He hopes that the Senate can act on the question in time for the State legislatures meeting in 1933 to pass upon it.

Although sentiment for quick consideration is strong in the Senate, some leaders said yesterday it would await House action of both repeal and beer before taking up prohibition.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, said the Glass amendment probably would be referred to the Senate judiciary committee, indicating that action in that branch would be delayed until January.

Walsh to Offer New Bill.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, announced however, he would introduce a new beer bill providing for an alcoholic content of 3.2 per cent by weight or 3.75 per cent by volume, and would press for speedy consideration.

All Democratic and Republican House members have been summoned by their leaders to be present on the opening day to vote on repeal. Garner is drafting the resolution. While he has declined to make its contents public, it is understood to be along the lines of the Democratic platform calling for outright repeal.

It requires 36 States to ratify a constitutional amendment. Forty-four of the 48 State Legislatures meet in 1933. Garner's idea is that if Congress adopts a repeal resolution early in the session, it could be ratified within a few months. Already seventeen States have repealed State enforcement acts, memorialized Congress to repeal the eighteenth amendment or declined to pass upon the question.

The question of whether the legislatures or State conventions, as provided for in platforms of both parties, shall pass upon ratification of repeal is being discussed. Most of the leaders, however, apparently favor action by the legislatures to expedite the matter.

All Sides Want Hearing.

Chairman Collier of the House ways and means committee has received indications that prohibitionists, brewers, wine producers and antiprohibitionists desire to be heard on beer legislation. Hearings begin December 7, and are expected to occupy five days. House consideration will follow soon under the Democratic plan.

The Glass amendment providing for repeal, outlawing the saloon and Federal protection to dry States is the first order of business in the Senate, but the pending motion is to refer it back to the judiciary committee. Indications are that this will be done.

Senator Walsh, who led the fight in the Democratic national convention for the repeal and beer planks, said his bill would modify the Volstead act by striking out all provisions relating to enforcement of Section 1 of the eighteenth amendment. It would define 3.2 per cent beer as non-intoxicating and would include ale and porter.

The measure would extend the power of the Webb-Kenyon bone-dry law to apply to 3.2 per cent beer in States and Territories which have legislation prohibiting it.

TO OPEN BEER BILL HEARINGS

The House ways and means committee will open hearings December 7 on the revenue phases of the beer bill. Chairman James Collier (left) of the committee estimated possible revenue from beer at $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 annually. Representative Fred Vinson (lower right) is the leading Democrat, and Representative Willis Hawley (right) the ranking Republican on the ways and means committee.

SHIPPING DAMAGED BY GALE IN FLORIDA

Highest Tides in Years Also Cause Heavy Property Loss on Coast.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Mountainous waves borne ashore by a northeast gale caused wide property damage, washed several boats aground, foundered a number of smaller craft and brought the highest tides in years to the northeast coast of Florida and south Georgia last night and today.

At Fernandina, Fla., the 32-foot schooner, Augustus G. Hilton, laden with lumber from the Cape Verde Islands, was torn from her moorings and cast upon a bar 1,500 feet away from which Coast Guard cutters were able to remove it tonight at high tide. It was only slightly damaged, a preliminary check showed.

A shrimp boat, the Nepenthe, a 40-footer, sank, and a private yacht was grounded, but not seriously damaged. An untenanted house also was demolished.

At St. Augustine the waves carried over the seawall, swamping several small boats, and an ocean front resort and an old pier on Anastasia Island collapsed as the result of being undermined. No one was reported injured.

For the first time in many years the moat surrounding old Fort Marion was filled with tide water. Crews labored throughout the day and night reinforcing the sea wall with bags of sand and concrete.

Daytona Beach experienced its highest tide in 10 years, and gusts of wind reached 75 miles an hour, observers said. The tide and wind damaged a boat harbor under construction.

The Daytona Beach Yacht Club's weekly regatta was called off today after three of the boats participating capsized. Their crews were rescued.

Waves cast large palm logs up into the streets at Neptune and Jacksonville beaches. The boardwalk was undermined for a considerable distance, and a fishing pier was carried away.

At St. Simons Island, south Georgia resort, a number of beach cottages were reported damaged.

Teacher Prepares for Air Pupils.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Getting ready for the day when he believes aeronautics will be taught in high schools, Principal A. H Parmelee of Capitol Hill High School here has learned to fly. After two months of secret training, he is ready to qualify for a private pilot's license.

PACTS WITH RUSSIA RATIFIED BY POLAND

Treaties of Nonaggression and Conciliation Finally Consummated.

Warsaw, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Poland ratified today nonaggression and conciliation pacts with Soviet Russia, which have been under negotiation for a long time. President Moscicki signed the documents and official announcement will be made tomorrow.

The nonaggression pact was initialed last July and its corollary, the conciliation pact, was initialed in Moscow by Maxim Litvinoff, foreign commissar, and Stanislas Patek, the Polish Ambassador, on November 11.

Foreign Minister Beck, in an interview with the correspondent of the Russian Tass News Agency in Geneva, said:

"I feel gratified to be able to say that I consider the Polish-Soviet conciliation pact foreseen in the nonaggression pact as very significant and real both for Poland and the U. S. S. R. I believe that it will greatly contribute not only to improve atmosphere in both countries, but also to stabilize good neighborly relations."

Moscow, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Official announcement was made today of ratification of a Soviet Russia-Poland nonaggression pact which was viewed as presaging an era of friendly relationship between the two former traditional enemy countries.

This left Roumania the only European state bordering on Soviet Russia without a similar treaty with this country. But with France reported about to sign a similar pact with Soviet Russia, it was expected in foreign circles here that Roumania soon would follow suit.

In the Polish-Soviet nonaggression pact both parties declare their eagerness to maintain peace, and the 1921 Riga treaty remains a basis for mutual relations and obligations. Both parties state that in their mutual relations they have renounced war as a national policy and oblige themselves mutually to refrain from any aggressive acts.

Both agree not to grant direct or indirect help to a third state attacking one of the parties. Agreement is made not to enter into any understanding which from the point of view of aggressiveness would be inimical to the other party.

The nonaggression pact called for the conciliation pact as a corollary. This second document set up procedure for settling disputes.

HIGHER PRICES SEEN IN CHAPIN'S REPORT

Secretary Cites Rise in Meat and Other Products of Farmers.

(Associated Press.)

Prospects for improvement of commodity prices at the beginning of the current fiscal year were described yesterday by Secretary Chapin as brighter than at any time in several years.

In his annual report to President Hoover, the Commerce Secretary said that as of June 30 "surplus supplies in many branches of industry had been reduced, and a more active demand was being reflected in a stiffening of prices."

"Rises from May 30 to the end of June, 1932, in prices of meats and several other domestic farm products were sharp," he added.

Also with the end of the old fiscal year, for the first time since 1929, Chapin said he saw "some signs of clearing in the foreign situation, while domestic troubles were being attacked on a wide front in an effort to halt the decline and bring about some measure of improvement."

Bank Situation Better.

The report covered a year of the incumbency of Robert P. Lamont, although tendered by Mr. Chapin, who succeeded him in August.

Some mitigation in the seriousness of bank suspensions, which occurred in unprecedented numbers during the last six months of 1931, was held by the Secretary to have been brought about by the "favorable psychological effect produced in October through the organization of the National Credit Corporation."

"The situation," he added, "was further alleviated in the second half of the fiscal year by the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and by other remedial measures, such as the Glass-Steagall act."

Chapin said that although foreign trade declined in value to the lowest level since prewar years, "the United States maintained its position as the world's leading export Nation, as well as its usual position in the import trade next to the United Kingdom."

Exports Fall Off.

"In physical volume our exports during 1931-32," he added, "showed a decline of 17 per cent, as compared with that of 1930-31, while imports were only 6 per cent smaller. Since domestic industrial production fell off 20 per cent and freight car loadings 22 per cent during this period, it would appear that the shrinkage in foreign trade has been less than that in domestic business."

Unparalleled gold withdrawals and steady liquidation of security markets during much of the year he attributed largely to forces of "panic and fear," set in motion by Central European financial disturbances.

Chapin advised the President that "in the second quarter and again in the final quarter of the fiscal year these forces were concentrated on the American money and security markets, with the result that irregularly upward movements in security values in October and in January and February soon reversed themselves, and during the remainder of the fiscal year our security markets were characterized by liquidation and our money markets by a steady withdrawal of short-term foreign funds, a substantial part of which were taken in gold."

Large Stock Decline.

The next reduction in monetary gold stocks was placed by Chapin at $1,037,000,000. The total value of stocks listed on the New York exchange, he said, fell from $47,400,000,000 on July 1 a year ago, to $15,600,000,000 on July 1, 1932.

"Downward" was the way he described the trend of industrial production, prices, employment, pay rolls, merchandise distribution, foreign trade and construction. Crop yields returned to normal, he said, "but continued price declines reduced the gross value of the yields to an amount only about half as great as that realized two years ago."

Chapin Cites Expansion Of Travel by Airplane

(Associated Press.)

Continued expansion of scheduled air transportation during the past year was described yesterday by Secretary Chapin as "an outstanding accomplishment in commerce and industry."

In his annual report to the President, the Commerce Secretary said "the number of passengers carried on the air lines during 1931 exceeded the total for the previous year and was more than three times the total for 1929."

"Increases also were recorded for air mail and air express," he added. "Information now available with reference to the first six months of 1932 definitely indicates that further substantial increases will be made during the present calendar year.

"In fact, it may be said that the continued development of air transportation has been an outstanding accomplishment in commerce and industry, not only during the past twelve months, but for the past three years."

Passengers carried in the calendar year 1929 numbered 172,405 against 322,345 in 1931; miles flown increased from 25,141,499 in 1929 to 47,385,987 in 1931.

Licensed pilots increased in number from 16,268 at the end of 1931 to 18,069 at the end of the fiscal year 1932, and the number of airports during the same fiscal year from 1,870 to 2,037.

15-Day Coma

Chances for Recovery of Lynchburg Boy, Auto Victim, Slight.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Seven-year-old Henry Stinnette, jr., critically injured when struck by an automobile fifteen days ago, remained unconscious today.

Although several times during the more than 360 hours that he has lingered in the comatose state he has opened his eyes, he has not been able to speak.

Food has been administered by intravenous injections and occasionally he has swallowed liquids, but of late he has lost considerable weight. Physicians said his chances for recovery from a brain concussion and several fractured bones were slight.

POWER COMMISSION ASKS WIDER SCOPE

Regulation of Private Firms Termed Eventual Need in Annual Report.

(Associated Press.)

A broad expansion of its regulatory authority over public utility companies was recommended to Congress yesterday by the Power Commission.

In its annual report, the commission urged that it be authorized to require concerns with Federal licenses, including holding companies, to submit any information desired as an aid to their supervision.

While the recommendations had to do only with Federal licensees—those operating on public land or navigable streams—the commission gave notice that a program for general regulation was being held in abeyance pending investigations in that field by Senate and House committees.

Control Seen Needed.

"It is convinced, however," the commission said, "that the public interest requires the early vesting of authority in the Federal Government to control, so far as it may be determined to be within its jurisdiction, the regulation both of electricity in interstate commerce and of the holding company in the power industry."

What extent this control would take, Chairman Smith of the commission explained, would depend on congressional action. Reports by the congressional committees making the studies may be made at the forthcoming session.

While the failure of the Insull companies had nothing to do with the recommendations, Chairman Smith said, the authority desired "would have a tendency to prevent such things in the future."

Purposes of Regulation.

Explaining that "any theory of Federal regulation of the holding company should be considered with two fundamental purposes in view," the commission listed them as:

"First: Regulation of the holding company in relation to the operating company, and through the operating company to the consumer of electrical energy; and, second, regulation of the holding company in relation to the investing public, which is principally interested in the securities of such holding company."

"Any draft of holding company legislation," the report continued, "must incorporate three major provisions:

"First, a declaration of jurisdiction.

"Second, a declaration concerning evidence of control and the burden of proof.

"Third, a grant of authority to acquire complete information upon which such regulation and control can be predicated.

Information Required.

"The vital and essential prerequisite to any exercise of authority over either holding companies or utilities engaged in interstate commerce," the commission said, "is the acquisition of the knowledge of company affairs upon which intelligent action toward regulation may be had.

"This information once available, the regulatory body, whether Federal or State, is equipped to act. It is in this field that the Federal commission is in better position to act, for both legal and practical reasons."

R.F.C. AMOUNTS PUT THOUSANDS TO WORK

Legal Kinks Delaying Some Other Issues Are Being Ironed Out.

(Associated Press.)

Employment of several thousand men through operation of the self-liquidating loan section of the reconstruction finance act has been reported to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, although only $360,000 actually has been handed to borrowers.

Legal kinks holding up several bond issues gradually are being ironed out, it was reported at the office of Harvey Couch, director in charge of self-liquidating loans. Operations are expected to start soon on all of the 32 projects for which the corporation board has voted a total of $137,249,500.

The Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District, a project involving flood control, power development and irrigation of a great area near Albuquerque, N. Mex., already is being pushed. The day after the corporation two months ago voted this district a loan of $5,784,000, 1,000 men were put to work. A friendly suit was brought before the State Supreme Court to determine the validity of a bond issue on the project. This was decided favorably two weeks ago, and immediately after the corporation was notified $360,000 was sent the district treasurer.

The money is paid to the projects as needed in order to save large sums in interest payments.

1,000 Are Put to Work.

Reports to Couch's office indicate that more than 1,000 men already are working on the Southern California Metropolitan Water District project, for which the corporation voted a $40,000,000 loan. The Tampa-Clearwater Bridge Co., of Tampa, Fla., which a week ago was granted $600,000, already has started work on its causeway in Tampa Bay, and preliminary work has begun on the New Orleans Belt Line Bridge.

The great bridge across San Francisco Bay, connecting Oakland and San Francisco, will be started within the next 30 days. News dispatches last week told of letting contracts for much of the work.

The self-liquidating loan feature of the act was designed to create employment. Through the loans already authorized employment to be created is estimated by the corporation at 23,336 men directly on the jobs with thousands directly benefited by preparing materials for use on the projects.

Wide Range of Loans.

The range of loans runs from sewage projects, financed by assessments against householders, to cotton compresses, water works, toll bridges and housing projects regulated by State and municipal law.

The two largest loans authorized are to the southern California water district and the Oakland-San Francisco bridge authorities. The $62,000,000 loan for the San Francisco Bay project still must pass the California Legislature to meet the terms of the corporation. However, it was indicated at the corporation that officials are confident the Legislature will act favorably and are going ahead.

Although not under the self-liquidating feature of the act, $57,796,483 of loans to railroads have been made for creation of employment. Recently the corporation has made $10,050,000 of loans to railroads for the purpose of building or repairing freight cars and other equipment, thus putting to work several thousand idle railroad shopmen. One loan was made to build a 40-mile railroad.

Prior to starting this type of "work" loans, the corporation had loaned $47,746,483 to railroads for completion of construction work already started, thus creating jobs and preventing men being thrown out of work. The largest of these was the $27,500,000 loan made last spring to the Pennsylvania to help finance the year's work of electrifying its lines between Washington and New York.

More recently the corporation has been concentrating on loans to farmers and others to enable them to feed live stock on the farms and prepare it for market.

Gardner Cowles, sr., a director, explained that with corn prices at the lowest level in history the corporation officials felt that the best way to market the crop is through feeding live stock. More than $4,000,000 has been loaned for this purpose, some of which already has been repaid.

3 MORE NATIONAL PARKS ARE URGED

Albright Suggests Florida, California and Sierra Sites in Report.

(Associated Press.)

Establishment of parks in the tropical Florida Everglades, California's Death Valley and the Kings River canyon of the high Sierra was urged yesterday by Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service.

Albright, in his annual report to Secretary Wilbur, said other outstanding scenic areas could well be included because in a few more years it might be impossible to obtain the necessary tracts for national parks.

The Grand Teton National Park should be extended in the Jackson Hole area in Wyoming, Albright added, to include an area of national forest land, a tract of unappropriated public domain and former ranch holdings purchased by John D. Rockefeller, jr., to aid in carrying out this plan.

A bill to establish the Everglades Park passed the Senate last session and is awaiting action by the House with a favorable report from the public lands committee.

"The amazing factor in park affairs during the last year," the director said, "was the travel to the national parks and national monuments.

"Despite unemployment, and the natural disinclination even of the employed to spend savings, because of future needs, and despite a great decrease in travel by rail, the national parks and monuments were visited in the 1932 season by 3,754,596 persons, 5.9 per cent more than last year."

ranging to send our police steamer to the Potomac, and trust you can arrange to send the Maury up next week."

Mr. Armstrong replied on the following day:

"Maury will get there as soon as possible next week."

The same day Mr. Earle dispatched the following to Armstrong:

"Potomac River situation getting more serious. Sailing tomorrow. Will reach Potomac Monday morning. Hope the Maury will reach there by Tuesday. Like to confer with you if convenient for you to come on her."

Mr. Armstrong replied:

"Maury left here. Will be in Potomac, weather permitting, Monday morning, reporting to Heflin (Colonial Beach, Va., police captain). I will get there Tuesday."

Mr. Earle said both the steamers will be equipped with arms and ammunition.

Since the Potomac was closed—by Virginia, in 1930, and Maryland, in 1931—police patrols of both States have been increased to prevent night poaching and handscraping done by men in fast power boats.

Mr. Earle said the present situation reached its climax on Thanksgiving Day, when offenders were seen operating in broad daylight and resisted arrest.

Hampton, Va., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Commissioner of Fisheries Richard Armstrong said tonight that the Maury, en route to Colonial Beach to aid Maryland authorities in quelling oyster law violators, had been forced into the Rappahannock River by strong winds.

rooms. The floor may have been hard, but it was warm and they had a roof over their heads.

A call to the headquarters of the U. S. park police revealed the fact that hardly a cog in that machine had moved since Saturday. Crime seems to be at a standstill, at least as far as the park police are concerned. It was learned that the past week-end has been the quietest experienced for months. The officer in charge attributed this lack of lawbreaking to the intense cold.

The mercury which slid down to subfreezing temperature throughout Virginia Saturday night, breaking numerous records in that State for a new low for November 27, was expected to take another tumble before sunrise this morning.

Tomorrow, however, is expected to mark the close of this record-breaking cold spell.

Richmond's 19 degrees early yesterday morning erased a previous record of 20.2 degrees established on November 27, 1903.

With a brisk north wind and a seasonal low of 13 degrees the Shenandoah Valley experienced its first real taste of winter weather. The mercury did not ascend above the freezing point during the day.

In most sections of Maryland the mercury hovered around 20 degrees and except in the sun, at no time during the day did it go above the freezing mark.

Moses, en Route Here, Predicts Dry Revision

Concord, N. H., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Senator George H. Moses, Republican, president pro tem of the Senate, left tonight to attend the short session of Congress with a prediction the prohibition law would be liberalized.

As he departed, he said it was "very likely" a beer bill would be passed before the session ended, but he predicted also that prohibition advocates would appeal to the Supreme Court against any beer or other modifying liquor measure that Congress approved. Senator Moses, who was defeated for reelection by Fred H. Brown, Democrat, in the November election, said his plans for the future still were indefinite.

turn before signing or rejecting any congressional act designed to modify the Volstead act have dusted off their law books and placed a big question mark after their findings.

So far as the legality of modification is concerned, they say much will depend upon how Congress approaches the problem.

The Supreme Court has held that it is for Congress to gauge the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. The amendment fixes no penalties and provides no enforcement. It simply prohibits. On the other hand, the Volstead act defines and provides for prohibition enforcement. It limits the nonintoxicating liquors to one-half of 1 per cent alcohol by volume.

Contention of Advocates.

Modification advocates have contended that Congress could amend the Volstead act simply by inserting 2.75, 4 or 5 in place of the one-half of 1 per cent, and real beer would flow from barrels and beer taxes would flow into the Treasury.

Government legal experts have listened attentively to these arguments and have scrutinized the law, only to reply "Not so fast, please."

Should Congress attempt to modify the Volstead act it is certain some dry organizations would attack the validity of such modification just as the wets attacked prohibition in the first place. Their attack would center mainly on the question of when is liquor intoxicating, for the eighteenth amendment would still prohibit intoxicating beverages. Thus the Supreme Court could hold an amendment to the Volstead act unconstitutional if it regarded the alcoholic content permitted by such amendment to be intoxicating and therefore in violation of the eighteenth amendment.

Even a repeal of the Volstead act and the passage of an entirely new enforcing law permitting higher content beverages might follow a hard course if haled into court. Such a law could well be held, it was said, to be unconstitutional on the grounds it permitted something prohibited by the Constitution.

Such an upset as this would leave no prohibition except that in the eighteenth amendment. To enforce it would involve a complex legal procedure which probably could be covered only by injunctions against violators.

Legal experts speculate that without any enforcement machinery whatever for the eighteenth amendment only injunctions against violators could be obtained, with a penalty applicable only on the score of contempt of court should the injunction itself be violated.

Du Pont Will Be Host At Wets' Dinner Dec. 6

(Associated Press.)

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment announced yesterday the annual dinner of its directors will be held in New York on December 6, with Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the executive committee, as host.

The association said the dinner is being given in honor of "the 422 outstanding business and professional men who have given their time and influence to the movement for the repeal of the prohibition amendment because they did not believe it had any proper place in the Constitution of the United States."

1931 Traffic Toll Was 33,500 Lives

Chapin Declares Million More Hurt; Loss Set at $3,000,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

A toll of 33,500 deaths and injuries to more than 1,000,000 persons was exacted by traffic accidents in the United States in 1931.

The national conference on street and highway safety, Secretary Chapin said, in his annual report yesterday, estimated the economic loss of the accidents, together with traffic congestion, at more than $3,000,000,000.

"Reports for 1932," the secretary continued, "so far as available on June 30, show for the first time in automobile history a decrease in the fatality rate, but this increase is small and is attributable in the main to reduction in automobile registrations. The present multiplicity of conflicting traffic laws and regulations, creating confusion and hazard, is seen as one of the largest contributing factors in the present enormous annual toll."

Two Die in New York.

New York, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Today was the coldest November 27 in Weather Bureau history here.

Sunup found the city tingling with the temperature at 12 degrees above zero. At midmorning, it started warming up a bit, reaching 23 at noon.

Two deaths were ascribed to the freezing weather here. Patrick Hallacy, 28, homeless and unemployed, died in a hospital six hours after a policeman found him collapsed on a street corner. Mrs. Elizabeth McNally, 36, was found dying in a vacant lot.

Food and shelter were supplied to 4,055 persons at the Municipal Lodging House tonight. This included about 150 women and children. J. R. Therkatz, assistant superintendent, said the number of relief cases had increased 10 per cent over that of last year.

New England Shivers.

Boston, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—New England shivered through the second day of an unexpected cold wave today, cheered with a prospect of rising temperatures and more seasonal weather tomorrow.

Borne into the Northeast by a howling, biting wind, the cold blasts sent temperatures tumbling throughout the New England States to as low as 5 and 6 degrees below zero in many points in the Northern States, and to the extreme of 21 below atop Mount Washington.

In Boston the mercury, after a drop of 35 degrees from yesterday afternoon to 14 at midnight last night, fell still further during the night to 8 above at dawn, making the day the coldest November 27 on record. The temperature climbed again to 27 during the day, but was falling again tonight.

At Lowell a reading of 5 above was reported. It was 2 above at Spencer.

Bar Harbor, Me., reported 6 below zero and Waterville, Me., 4 below.

A mercury reading of 14 below zero was reported yesterday at Skytop, Pa., in the Pocono Mountains. Westward from the East's extreme cold, King Winter still held away in the Ohio Valley and Tennessee.

Residents of the plains States generally were greeted by a smiling sun and seasonal or even higher temperatures. Through Missouri, Kansas and into the Southern States of Oklahoma and Texas the warmth continued more noticeable, reaching a high of 66 degrees in San Antonio, Tex.

Much of the Rocky Mountain region, spawning ground of many a blizzard, basked in warmth and sunshine. A maximum temperature of 66 degrees was reported in mountain passes near Denver. A mud slide, however, halted traffic on the Great Northern Railway near Whitefish, Mont.

It was raining last night in Oregon, and rain was predicted today for Washington and Idaho. Clouds were the rule in California. In Oakland rain caused postponement of automobile races.

ROOSEVELT STUDIES BUDGET BALANCING

Wheeler and Byrnes Visit President-Elect and Discuss Issues.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—An extensive study of farm relief and budget balancing is being made by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the hope that the short session of Congress will deal with the two questions in such a way as to avoid an extra session early in his administration.

In the group of men that will visit the President-elect at his Warm Springs home during the next week are agricultural leaders and members of Congress familiar with the various phases of governmental affairs that will play a part in so shaping expenditures as to bring the national budget to an even keel.

Mr. Roosevelt discussed the legislative program at length today with Senator Wheeler, of Montana, who motored by way of Warm Springs on his way to Washington for the opening of the short session.

Talks With Byrnes.

A little later he went into a long conference with Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, in which they discussed various governmental expenditures that might be trimmed in an economy program. Byrnes is a member of the Senate appropriations committee and for many years was active in the work of the same committee of the House. He has been closely associated with Mr. Roosevelt through much of the campaign.

The President-elect has been described as feeling that if farm relief and budget balancing legislation can be passed at the short session a special session may be avoided. As one phase of budget balancing measures stands the legalization of beer, which is expected to bring in a revenue the estimates of which have varied up to beyond the billion mark.

Farm Chiefs Invited.

Beer has figured but little so far in the discussion at Warm Springs, but Congressional leaders have said that there would be a vote on legalizing legislation soon after the session opens. Following close upon the visit of a delegation from the National Grange, the President-elect has invited Henry A. Wallace, an Iowa agricultural editor, Henry Morganthau, jr., of New York, and M. L. Wilson, of the Montana State Agricultural College, to come tomorrow to talk over the agricultural program to be adopted.

A little later in the week he will discuss the same subject with members of the House agricultural committee, and these conferences will be followed by others along the same lines with various other agricultural leaders, both in Congress and out.

Tomorrow afternoon Mr. Roosevelt will talk over naval matters with Representative Vinson, of Georgia, chairman of the House naval committee.

Naval Cuts Ashore.

The extent to which naval affairs may enter into his economy program has not been disclosed. Some of those familiar with Mr. Roosevelt's views believe that he will be disposed to deal gently with that portion of the Navy which is afloat and have most of the economies that may be effected apply to shore establishments.

Another visitor tomorrow will be Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, with whom the President-elect will go over the entire legislative program. Senator Pittman, of Nevada, who made several of the campaign trips with Mr. Roosevelt, will come later in the week.

Among the others who will come tomorrow will be James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Mrs. Farley, and Frank A. Walker, the committee's treasurer.

Spanish President Hoping For Visit From Roosevelt

Wants Governor to Accept Invitation Prior to Inauguration.

By ED L. KEEN.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Madrid, Nov. 27.—Expressing the hope that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will see fit to visit southern Spain before his assumption of the Presidency, Niceto Alcala Zamora, President of the Spanish Republic, in an exclusive interview today said he is looking forward with deepest pleasure to his forthcoming American visit.

Spain, he said, with a democratic and constitutional government, is pledged to contribute her utmost toward minimizing the effects of the world-wide economic crisis.

The president received me in the gold-decorated salon which formerly served King Alfonso XIII as reception room in the palace. Adjoining it was the room from which Alfonso departed into voluntary exile on April 14, 1931.

As we talked, we looked out upon the same elaborately beautiful garden and terraces across which Alfonso fled while the populace clamored at the front doors of the palace.

Alcala Zamora spoke with great enthusiasm of the new Spain and its development, particularly of the role the nation hopes to play in world affairs in the future.

"Spain is inspired," he said, "only by her love of peace and her duty toward humanity. The nation is following a designed path in an attempt to minimize the effects of the economic crisis.

"Thanks to the republic, with its austere administration, the government is continuing its work, forging its laws in a spirit of full democracy and for the benefit of all its citizens."

When I expressed the pleasure that many Americans have felt at Malaga's invitation to President-elect Roosevelt, Alcala Zamora said:

"I have read Malaga's invitation with pleasure, since it reveals the hospitable spirit of the Spaniards. We can assure you that all Spaniards would hasten to give proof of their admiration for Gov. Roosevelt, if he should deign to accept the invitation. Undoubtedly such a visit would have beneficial results on the good relations Spain maintains today with the United States.

"Since the moment of my election to the Presidency one of my greatest wishes has been to make a trip to America. The trip would have to be made in two parts. The first part would be taken next year, when I can take advantage of favorable circumstances during a legislative holiday.

"The invitation for me to visit Mexico has already been officially accepted by the Spanish government, but the date can not be definitely fixed until preparations are completed.

"It will be for me a deep satisfaction to personally carry the greetings of my nation to those countries that are linked to us by ties of race and language, and to North America as well."

'PROSPERITY MONEY' DEBT PLAN OFFERED

Bridge Tender in California Suggests Big Deposit of Bonds by Debtor.

Alameda, Calif., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A new Young plan for solution of the international war debt problem was offered here today.

The newest Young plan came not from a lawyer-financier versed in diplomacy and banking, but was presented by Harry Young, a bridge tender, who for fifteen years has viewed life and events from a book-lined cabin by the Bay Farm Island Bridge, spanning an estuary between Alameda and the Bay Farm Island Airport.

The bridge tender's plan, which he said was viewed favorably by Senator Hiram Johnson and Representative Albert Carter, of California, briefly stated, is as follows:

1. Debtor nations would agree to deposit notes or bonds representing $11,000,000,000 in the Treasury of the United States.

2. The United States Government would issue what Young terms "prosperity money," secured by the notes and bonds.

3. The "prosperity money" would be accepted by debtor nations in payment of tariff obligations, goods or any obligations contracted by the United States Government or its citizens.

The originator of the little Young plan, who mans his bridge controls only four or five times a day to open the 208-foot span for ships, has had ample time to read and reflect on the contents of the general library he has installed in his cabin.

He calls himself a "Progressive." He has made four trips to Washington in behalf of what he considers progressive legislation.

"My plan would wipe out the war debts in 50 years," Young said today. "Prosperity money would always maintain its face value in gold, because it would always be accepted by debtor nations in payment of goods and tariff costs."

BANKERS URGE DEBT CUTS TO HELP TRADE

Suggest Europe Get Credits for Cooperation in Ending U. S. Slump.

New York, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A proposed plan for ending the international debt problems, under which the United States would offer concessions to those foreign nations which would bind themselves to cooperate in reviving American foreign trade, was offered to Congress today by Young & Ottley, Inc., managers of investment funds.

The proposal revives in some respects the suggestion made last summer by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who urged that America credit debtor governments in proportion to the amount of goods that their respective countries purchased from the United States. But the new proposal carries the Smith proposal somewhat further and differs in several important respects.

The Young & Ottley suggestion, which is outlined in a comprehensive study of foreign trade of this country and of the influences at work which helped to cause the depression, urges that Congress adopt a resolution authorizing the President to appoint a commission of five members, to be known as "the International Trade and War Debt Commission," which would be instructed to confer with foreign governments, to "determine and institute the most practicable measure for stimulating international trade."

Board of Five.

The commission would consist of one representative, each, of American labor and American farmers together with two "outstanding business men and one financial expert of the United States."

As a second step, the President would be requested by Congress to "bring about an international economic conference with a view to eliminating unfair trade practices, removing economic barriers affecting international trade, and lowering those tariff duties that may be excessive, in order to prevent retaliatory tariffs and economic wars and promote friendly trade and commercial relations between nations."

Under the plan, this commission would be prepared to barter with foreign nations, offering debt concessions in return for trade advantages. Furthermore, it would be instructed to inform each foreign government owing war debts or reconstruction loans to the United States "that the ultimate settlement of all such debt problems with each separate government is dependent on the degree of cooperation that each individual foreign government exhibits and institutes in its effort to restimulate and increase imports from the United States."

Moratorium Clause.

Under certain conditions, the President would be authorized to grant each debtor country individually a 25-year moratorium and the commission would be authorized to "make agreement with each of these foreign governments that each year throughout the duration of its 25-year moratorium part of its war debt and reconstruction loan obligations to the United States shall be canceled in proportion to its imports from the United States during each such year."

In its study of the war debt problem, Young & Ottley, Inc., said there was no question about the justice of American debt claims. But, the company said, "the important thing to determine is whether revision of the debts will help the United States recover from this depression to such an extent that it will be a distinct benefit to all the tax payers rather than a burden."

ALABAMA POLITICIAN IS GUILTY IN BRIBERY

Former State Senator Faces Possible Sentence of 2 to 10 Years.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Elmer D. Jordan, 45-year-old grocer whose political aspirations carried him first to the House and then the Senate of the Alabama Legislature, was convicted by a jury today of agreeing to accept a bribe.

The jury, in Montgomery Circuit Court, locked up overnight, reported the verdict this morning after four hours of actual deliberation.

The former senator was placed in jail to await pronouncement of sentence tomorrow by Judge Walter B. Jones. Counsel for Jordan announced that a motion for a new trial would be made and, if this is denied, an appeal will be taken to the Alabama Supreme Court.

The offense is punishable by a penitentiary sentence of not less than two nor more than ten years.

During the recent special session of the Legislature, Jordan was charged with soliciting $250 as "expense money" from Lee Castleberry, Gadsden, Ala., theater manager, for passing an amusement bill for Gadsden which legalized motion picture shows, golf and tennis on Sunday.

The Senate rules committee conducted a hearing on the charges, after which Jordan resigned, charging in turn that he was being made a "scapegoat."

The State based its case chiefly on testimony of Gov. B. M. Miller and Castleberry that Jordan admitted requesting the money.

GANGSTER'S DEATH LAID TO DRUG RING

Washington Group Believed Aroused Over Cocaine Double-Crossing.

The fatal shooting of Elmer Bleinberger, Baltimore racketeer, on the Columbia pike near Ellicott City on October 28, yesterday was laid to the vindictive guns of a Washington drug ring, which had been allegedly duped in a narcotic deal with Baltimore dope sellers.

Simultaneous with an extensive round-up in Baltimore by police and Federal agents of a purported drug ring, Lieut. Robert Bradley, of the Baltimore detective bureau, announced his investigation of the drug ring and the shooting of Bleinberger had convinced him Washington thugs were responsible for the killing.

Lieut. Bradley declared his probe had revealed that not long before the Bleinberger shooting a large consignment of novocaine had been palmed off by Baltimore racketeers on a Washington group of drug peddlers of cocaine.

Angered at the double-crossing, Lieut. Bradley said, the Washington group had set a trap for Bleinberger and his associates, and the Columbia pike shooting was its culmination. Bleinberger was mysteriously rushed to Washington by his friends, placed in a taxicab and taken to Emergency Hospital, where he died the next day.

It was also learned yesterday that a Baltimore gangster had died of fright, according to physicians in a hospital there. Baltimore police had sought him for questioning in connection with the Bleinberger shooting.

The drug ring round-up in Baltimore Saturday and yesterday climaxed a six-month investigation by Federal narcotic agents under the supervision of Harry J. Anslinger, commissioner of narcotics in Washington.

Agents posing as pharmacists and physicians gathered evidence to bring about the arrests.

Detective Sergt. R. A. Sanders, assigned to narcotic investigations by the local detective bureau, yesterday declared he had never heard of the Bleinberger killing. He said he had heard of the Baltimore round-up and had also heard of crooked dope deals involving representation of novocaine as cocaine.

40 IN APARTMENT SAVED FROM FIRE

alarm, and the taxicab driver dashed into the burning building, it was learned.

By this time the early morning—the coldest on record for the present season—had been metamorphosed into a nightmarish horror. Through the leaping flames gesticulating figures could be discerned, while frightened screams arose above the crackling and roar of the blaze.

The spectators rushed to the rescue of the imprisoned residents and assisted them from the building. Neighbors gave shelter to the homeless. Little of value was saved. The more than 40 persons lost practically everything.

Damaged Possessions Hunted.

Throughout yesterday they gathered about their ruined homes, extricating charred pieces of furniture, soaked clothing, smoke-stained jewelry. A man groped in the ashes for half an hour for a wedding ring—and found it. A little girl wept in a corner of a fire-wrecked room over a ruined doll, hugged it to her and insisted on taking it away.

Miley E. Fowler said that $300 in bills in his apartment was destroyed.

Samuel J. Bozen, an interior decorator, who lived on the first-floor front with his wife and three small children, said he was disturbed by the screams of his children. He found the corridor turned into a furnace. The only escape was through windows giving onto the street. Bozen said he tossed his children to waiting arms.

Another man said that when his wife awoke him he insisted that the noise that had disturbed her was hail and did not become alarmed until he smelled smoke.

Residents of House.

Residents of the house besides the Bozen family were B. B. Buchanan, Virgial R. Philpot, Bernard R. Fink, Mrs. Minnie Murphy and her son, E. C. Murphy; William B. Ryan, Mrs. Miley E. Fowler, Frank C. Nowe, Samuel A. Moore, Mrs. Harriet M. Oertel and son, Martin; Mrs. Alice C. Jones and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Richard English, Beverly J. Moore, Elmer N. Wildman, Mr. and Mrs. Matthias Egan and daughter, Henry C. Gilley and Louis Friedman.

Nearby homes and stores were damaged by water. These included the shoe repairing establishment of Joseph Afala, 80 Rhode Island avenue northwest; the home of Rubin Moore at 67 Rhode Island avenue and the bakery of John L. Hammack, 84 Rhode Island avenue.

Doubts Origin in Furnace.

Fire Marshal Calvin G. Lauber, who placed the damage at $50,000, said that he did not believe the fire was started by the furnace. The origin of the blaze appeared to be in the center of the basement near the trade entrance, he said. The fire marshal said that in all probability the building will have to be rebuilt.

The interior of the building was composed of wood, the exterior of brick. When the occupants were aroused the stairway was blazing and the only escape possible for those on upper floors was from two fire escapes on either side of the structure.

The fact that no lives were lost was attributed by Fire Department authorities to the fire escapes, but even flight from these avenues was made hazardous by flames which licked around the steel ladders and by sheets of ice covering the steps.

4 BIG TASKS FACED BY NEW REICHSTAG

Nonconfidence Vote Is Sure to Be Brought if Papen Heads Cabinet.

Berlin, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Four immediate major tasks await the new Reichstag summoned to meet on December 6, if it escapes threatened dissolution. The new legislative chamber was elected on November 6.

The first is its attitude toward a abinet. Should Franz von Papen be the cabinet chief, a vote on nonconfidence is sure to be brought in by the Nazis and the Communists, if not also by the Socialists and Centrists, and is almost certain of adoption.

The next major question is that of constitutional reform and revision. The recent Von Papen cabinet gave solemn assurance that the various federated states will be heard before the government's draft is presented, but even assuming that the states approve the draft and register this approval through their delegates by a two-thirds majority in the Reichsrat, or federal council, there is still a hard road ahead to travel before the new draft finds the approval of the constitutionally prescribed two-thirds majority of a Reichstag session at which two-thirds of the members are present.

A third question is that of ratification of the Lausanne agreement on reparations made last July. Before voting one way or the other on it, Reichstag members will want to know more about what happened behind the scenes at Lausanne. They will want to know just what is the status of future payments and just what is Germany's position with reference to the gentlemen's agreement adopted between France and England. For this purpose, executive and hence confidential sessions of the committee on foreign affairs no doubt will be held.

Finally, there is the far-reaching problem of Germany's finances and of her budget. As a number of German writers recently have pointed out, probably nobody knows except the minister of finance, Count von Schwerin-Krosick, exactly where Germany stands with reference to her income and outgo. For months Germany has lived from hand to mouth and the Reichstag, it is generally expected, will want to make use of its fundamental right of controling the budget at least for the five months still remaining of the budget year, as well as to work over, prune and adopt a budget for 1933-34.

All this depends, however, upon whether the Reichstag will be given a chance to continue its existence after the initial skirmishes about the cabinet have been decided.

McDUFFIE ENTERS SPEAKERSHIP RACE

of a steering committee to be composed of members representing every section of the country in order to secure the combined judgment of the Democratic membership in shaping our legislative policies and in arranging our program.

"It will be my purpose to carry out the views of President Roosevelt on the many important problems to be dealt with by the Congress."

Saturday, Representative Bankhead, of Alabama, announced he would not be a candidate, but would support McDuffie. Bankhead had been regarded as a contender.

McDuffie has been in the House fourteen years and was reelected without opposition from the First Alabama District. He has been party whip for a number of years and was one of the leaders in the movement for economy in Government expenditures.

Byrns, chairman of the appropriations committee and the Democratic congressional committee, made his announcement Saturday. Previously, Rainey, the party floor leader, and Rankin, chairman of the veterans committee, entered the race.

Other prospective contenders are Representatives McCormack, of Massachusetts; Greenwood, of Indiana; Warren, of North Carolina, and O'Connor, of New York.

SECRET DATA SEEN IN NEW DEBT NOTE

by Premier Herriot and Louis Germain-Martin, minister of finance.

The foreign office had nothing to say about the meeting, but the newspaper Petit Parisien said that a rough draft of a reply to Secretary Stimson's note asking payment of the $20,000,000 due on December 15, was considered.

Several special cabinet sessions are expected to be called this week to determine what will be done about the proposed new memorandum. Premier Herriot is being urged by some of his friends to put the entire matter up to Parliament and thereby avoid possible defeat of his government on any independent action which he might otherwise take. The premier is entirely occupied with the debt question and he has talked by telephone with the French embassies in Washington and London.

Frederick Jenny, well-known financial authority, wrote in Le Temps tonight that "for the first time the eventuality of revision of debts owed to America is admitted by the United States Government."

Athens, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Replying to the request of the United States for $440,000, the interest due this month on the 1929 loan of $12,000,000, a Greek government note today said it could not be paid.

The note pointed out that the loan, although made after the World War, was to finance the repair of war damages.

Female Fish Race Is Found By Michigan U. Zoologist

Queer Animals Live and Propagate Independently of Males; Discovery May Bring About Changes in Ideas of Evolution.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A race of female fishes which live and propagate independently of males of their kind has been found by Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, University of Michigan zoologist. All their young are females, and the offspring invariably "take after mother" with fine disregard for the beautiful fins carried by "father and his folks."

The discovery of these Amazonian creatures, scientists here say, may bring about some fundamental changes in scientific ideas of evolution. These queer animals belong to a group of tropical fish which give birth to their young alive instead of laying eggs. They have had the scientific name Mollienisia Formosa, and fish of this genus are referred to commonly as mollies. They are first cousins of the guppies, which to some extent have replaced goldfish as household pets.

Dr. Hubbs found that Mollienisia Formosa is a hybrid between two other species, Mollienisia Latipinna and Mollienisia Sphenops. Experiments in the Michigan Museum of Zoology showed that "formosa" would mate with male latipinnas or male sphenops with the same results. All the young were female "formosas."

From these tests, Dr. Hubbs concluded that he had found the first apparent case of parthenogenesis among vertebrates—offspring which have no true father.

The discovery gives biologists the first case of abundant occurrence in nature of a form of demonstrated hybrid origin, having nearly all the characteristics of a national species. It is the first known occurrence of a race of vertebrates as females only, over a wide portion of its range.

Mollies are small fish, usually not over an inch long. To scientists, these viviparous fishes furnish valuable material for experimental evolution.

In the past there have been biologists who believed that hybridization plays a role in the process of evolution. Dr. Hubbs' discoveries about formosa may lead to evidence that modern animals, in some cases, developed from crosses of older species.

Bridge League to Open Annual Tourney Today

New York, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The American Bridge League opens its annual tournament in New York tomorrow for the first time in its history with events for teams and pairs scheduled through Saturday. The competition was held in Philadelphia last year and in Hanover, N. H., the previous year.

The sixth annual national championship matches will provide the first real test of the new tournament code adopted last week by the league, the United States Bridge Association and the American Whist League. Auction events are on the program, but the officials expect to complete them in one day, as was done at Philadelphia last year.

Pastorate in New York Is Resigned by Dr. Fitch

New York, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The resignation of Dr. Albert Parker Fitch as pastor of the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church was announced at today's communion service by the Rev. R. W. Anthony, associate pastor. Poor health was ascribed as the reason.

Dr. Fitch, who had served as pastor since 1928, took a six-month leave of absence on April 1 an an effort to recover his health. He returned to his duties on October 2, but ten days later suffered a stroke.

Phone Number Only Divorce Asset.

San Francisco, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—A telephone number was listed by Mrs. June Rucker in a suit for divorce from Albert Rucker as the only item of community property she cares about. The number, Graystone 1038, she explained, is essential to a transfer business upon which she depends for support. She asked that her husband be restrained from severing the connection pending the outcome of the suit.

Air Express Rate Cuts To Take Effect Dec. 1

New York, Nov 27 (A.P.).—Reductions in air express rates were announced today by the Railway Express Agency, effective December 1.

The new schedule shows reductions of from 15 to 30 per cent. On the New York-Chicago run, for example, the reduction amounts to 96 cents on 10 pounds: from $4.40 to $3.44. The reduction is greater porportionately in heavier shipments.

Bulgar Mass Meeting Protests Neuilly Pact

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Reports from Sofia, Bulgaria, said an indoor mass meeting was held there today to protest against the treaty of Neuilly, which disarmed and reduced the territory of Bulgaria after the World War. There were no reports of rioting.

Police were reported to have forestalled a scheduled outdoor demonstration.

Alert Cafe Owner Shoots Bandit Dead

Second Robber Grazed as Trio Flee on Foot at Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Four men who drove up in a motor car to park near a cafe here early today didn't look like customers to the proprietor, Jesse L. Hughes.

Warning A. S. Metzger, an employe, to be on the alert for a holdup attempt, Hughes seized a rifle and took a stand behind a tree 75 yards from the entrance. The motorists weren't customers. One left the car, strode to the cafe door and ordered Metzger to hand over the cash.

Hughes killed him with a shot, smashed the glass of the car with rifle fire, survived four pistol shots in return and grazed another robber with a bullet as the three survivors fled on foot. Police identified the slain man as John B. Burgess, 44, of Fort Worth.

ADM. BYRD DEFENDS HIMSELF IN ATTACK

'Stalking Horse' Statement of Legion Head Accepted as Compliment.

Boston, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd tonight said in a reply to a statement made in Richmond, Va., last night by Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, that if he was a "stalking horse," as charged by the legion commander, "then I am stalking for the suffering hordes of the unemployed of this country."

Johnson had spoken of Admiral Byrd as "unwittingly and unintentionally" the "stalking horse for the one person out of 3,000 of our population who is against the veterans of America."

The admiral, who is chairman of the National Economy League, said he felt "constrained to thank Commander Johnson for his mild statement that, compared to the statements that a million veterans have been making around the country, this stalking horse statement is a grand and wonderful compliment."

Respects His Sincerity.

The admiral said he appreciated "the commander's elevating him from a certain obnoxious animal to the stalking horse." He also said he respected the "sincerity of Commander Johnson's statements because I know him to be a real patriot."

In replying to Johnson's statements concerning the National Economy League, Admiral Byrd said:

"The people of this country must combine, as in war, to cut the cost of government. The total cost of government, town, city, State and Federal, is over $14,000,000,000 a year, whereas all the earnings of all the people working at 10,000 different tasks is only a little over three times this cost of our government. It means that the employed people of this country, and that includes the masses of the people, must work for at least three months every year to give their earnings, directly or indirectly, to meet this dangerously high cost of government."

One of Abuses Attacked.

The admiral said he wanted to make it clear that "the high cost of the civil life of injured veterans is only one of the many abuses that the league is attacking."

He said the league was strong for proper pay for the war disabled, but that it was unalterably opposed to pensions for injuries received by veterans in civil life "that have nothing to do with war."

"The total cost of the World War veterans alone," the admiral said, "will eventually come to over $80,000,000,000, four times the cost of the war itself, and the country can not stand this cost. Service for the country in time of war must be measured in terms of patriotism and not dollars and cents."

bedside bulletin of the day, issued at noon, said:

"Mr. Ford spent a good night. His physicians regard his condition as satisfactory this morning."

A few hours after the operation, however, it had been announced that Mr. Ford's pulse and temperature were normal.

It was indicated at the hospital that no further bulletins would be issued tonight on Mr. Ford's condition.

Despite the optimistic tone of the physicians' bulletins, it was said by authoritative professional sources that another 24 hours must elapse before Mr. Ford could definitely be considered well on the way to recovery. The usual history of patients who have undergone such strangulated hernia operations, it was pointed out, is that the crisis usually occurs about 48 hours after the time of operation. In the case of Mr. Ford, this period will be late tomorrow.

From a source which could not be quoted it was learned today that for nearly 24 hours prior to being taken to the hospital yesterday Mr. Ford had been under observation and that numerous blood counts had been taken. These, it was said, showed a progressive increase, indicating a probable infection.

Several hours before Mr. Ford was brought to the hospital from Fairlane, his great estate in suburban Dearborn, all patients on the third floor of the wing in which his room is located were moved to other floors.

The party accompanying him to the hospital included Mrs. Ford, Edsel Ford, his son, and Mrs. Edsel Ford and Harry Bennett, head of the Ford Co.'s service division.

A new type of anesthetic, said to impose a minimum of strain upon the heart, was given Mr. Ford in his room before he was taken to the operating table. The operation required approximately 45 minutes, said to be about average for such cases. From the fact it was completed in less than an hour, physicians not connected with it said the operation probably did not disclose any extraordinary or unexpected complications.

The hospital where Mr. Ford is a patient covers an entire city square at the northwest corner of West Grand and Hamilton boulevards. His room is in the wing on Hamilton boulevard and faces a court.

Flowers in great profusion came to the hospital today, but few, if any, of them were taken to his room. Meanwhile, at the Ford Co. offices in Dearborn, telegrams and cablegrams from all over the world poured in expressing sympathy, and inquiry as to Mr. Ford's progress. Newspaper offices, the hospital and the Ford offices were flooded with telephone calls throughout the day.

Sources close to the family said tonight that inquiries and wishes for speedy recovery had been received from President Hoover, Mussolini and George V, King of England, among hundreds of other well wishers.

Mrs. Ford and Dr. McClure early tonight were getting their first rest since before the operation.

Florida Boat Sailings Are Advanced to Dec. 1

Announcing expectations of greater influx of tourists in Florida this year, officials of the Merchants & Miners Transportation Co. yesterday advanced the winter schedule of boat sailings to December 1 instead of January 1.

"Our belief is based on more than mere optimism," said Miss Marie Wermann, passenger agent here. A series of all-expense tours to Florida will be held again, Miss Wermann said.

THE DEMOCRATS

As Washington Knows Them.

BY VYLLA POE WILSON.

The Wilsons and the Clarks are coming back. National Capital Democracy will be divided into two camps, all joined, however, in the support of the Roosevelt administration. Both of these historic clans sent out all their tribesmen to secure the election of Roosevelt. Both, of course, will be among those present when the new President selects his Cabinet and makes other appointments.

There was great excitement about the doors of the old Arlington Hotel March 3, 1913. The Wilsons were coming in preparation for the inauguration ceremony the next day. The lobby was thronged with Democrats, many of them little known to Washington. Among them was William Gibbs McAdoo, tall, cadaverous looking widower, with his daughter, Nona, of debutante age and very pretty. Miss Belle Hagner, now Mrs. Norman James, of Baltimore, was among the waiting throng. She had been the White House social secretary to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and was to hold that position with the Wilsons, her position being secured for her by Mrs Roosevelt's intimate friend, Mrs. Hugh Wallace.

The cars drove up to the door. The Wilsons were in Washington. In they came, President-elect Wilson with a round-faced little lady, the first Mrs. Wilson, the three Wilson girls, Margaret, Jessie and Eleanor, all dressed in dark costume velvet suits, with velvet hats, to be discarded on the morrow for real light spring suits of silk and straw hats for the inauguration ceremony. Cold though it be, some one had said March was "spring" in Washington.

Had Entire Floor.

The Wilsons had a whole floor. The numberless array of members of the famous "Cousin Club," which was a marked feature of the Wilson administration, was scattered through the hotel.

Aunt Ellen was busy seeing that every one was settled and was the first to discover the narrow back stairway the hotel management had given to the distinguished family, cousins and all, so that they might avoid the crowds in the lobby when they wanted to come down to their meals in the huge private dining room reserved for their use.

As those who could pass the bars of hotel guards and Secret Service men waited in the corridor outside of the bedroom of the Wilsons to get some news for the papers all over the country, sounds of merriment and gay talk came through the transoms. Mr. Fitzsimmons Woodrow, nephew of the President-elect, who was to be a beau for the entire eight years of the Wilson administration to all the debutante cousins and Democratic debutantes of the National Capital, arrived calling his greetings as he unlocked his door. A door blew open a bit and a pillow shied across the hall, knocking the young man off his feet and cousin Eleanor Wilson, later Cabinet hostess as wife of the Secretary of the Treasury and now wife of the Senator from California, hastily closed and locked her door against retaliation.

Went Sightseeing.

In the White House the Wilsons went sightseeing, every one of them, nearly all day for several weeks, and hurried back to their tea in the red room with their mother. They wore white silk shirtwaists and tailored skirts with their tailored coats, and wore high bandeaus to hold their hats at a stylish angle.

Soon Washington discovered that Miss Jessie Wilson was spending much of her time at the Y. W. C. A luncheons with the secretaries and taking a real active interest in the work. It was discovered that she was soon to be married to Francis Bowes Sayre. All Washington primed itself for a White House wedding, for there had not been one there since that of Miss Alice Lee Roosevelt and Representative Nicholas Longworth. Besides, Miss Wilson was to be the thirteenth White House bride. Again the cousins gathered in Washington and the wedding went off with great eclat, in spite of the simplicity note emphasied in all the White House announcements. The Secretary of the Treasury and Miss Eleanor Wilson sat on the dais on which the wedding took place, a sure sign, for some reason, to the superstitious that they would marry soon.

Then came the dancing craze. How Miss Margaret Wilson and Miss Eleanor Wilson did dance and dip and slide at every party and tea dance in Washington they could be induced to attend. They could be induced to attend many if there was to be dancing. They danced upstairs in the White House, with the Secretary of the Treasury as the partner of "Miss Eleanor," even while the august members of the Diplomatic Corps were being received in the state rooms below. They danced at the administration dancing class with venerable statesmen and ladies of uncertain years, as well as debutantes and subdebutantes as members and any good dancing man who happened to be in Washington. The Wilson girls could glide and slide and dip to a finished degree that aroused the envy in many beholders.

Accompanied Her Husband.

When Eleanor Wilson finally became Mrs. McAdoo and the youngest Cabinet hostess they lived in a narrow but attractive house on fashionable Massachusetts avenue, which still stands. Every morning when Mr. McAdoo walked to the Treasury, his bride walked with him, clinging to his arm as they crossed streets, and hurrying back to the White House to catch a glimpse of the Sayre baby, who had been born there and was a frequent visitor with his parents. Mrs. McAdoo, or Eleanor or "Nell," as she was called, was the socially minded Wilson girl. She adored a chance to entertain foreigners with titles. Each one of her parties was a finished production. She took part in society theatricals and made quite a reputation for herself as a solo and fancy dancer. None of the other Wilsons cared about being considered "smart" outside of the rights of their position. But Mrs. McAdoo cared and was foremost in the heyday of the Wilson administration.

Miss Margaret Wilson, who had taken to having her voice cultivated between dancing, sang about Washington for private enjoyment and for charity functions. Several musicales were given in the White House with her as the chief artist. She became interested in the community centers and really was very instrumental in establishing the Community Center Department which functions so importantly in the Capital City.

When the first Mrs. Wilson died and the White House went in mourning, Margaret Wilson spent most of her time in New York. But in between times she had time to lunch and call on Mrs. Norman Galt, the pretty local Washington jewelry store owner and church worker who liked music as well as Margaret. One night Mrs. Galt went to the White House to dinner and Margaret and she sang afterward, with President Wilson listening in the background. Mrs. Wilson had a nice profile and was really pretty. So the President of the United States escorted his daughter's guest home one night, went in to call and began his courtship which ended in Mrs. Galt becoming First Lady of the Land. She was the only local First Lady in the history of the White House, and Mrs. Wilson was and is popular in Washington.

Every one admires her and thinks that she has written her name high on the scroll of fame as a faithful and loyal wife especially during the months when Woodrow Wilson was so ill in the White House.

Admired by All.

Washingtonians, however, rather smile to themselves when they read about Mrs. Wilson being really President of the United States for that period. She never aspired to this honor, they feel, although she did cooperate with three men who probably had more to do in keeping the executive machinery going at that time, Postmaster General Albert Sidney Burleson, Joseph Tumulty, secretary to the President, and Admiral Cary T. Grayson. They kept of their personal contact with the ill Chief Executive and did not have to talk to him through Mrs. Wilson as did others.

Mrs. Wilson is regarded in Washington as the chieftess of the Democratic party, much as royalty is regarded in other countries. She is a favorite dinner guest at embassies and legations, the White House and official homes and society leaders, no matter what political party happens to be in power. She does not want an office, and branded as ridiculous the attempt to propose her name as Vice President at the political conventions.

Mrs. Wilson likes to travel, and never fails to go to a foreign country for a function honoring her late husband. She is an indefatigable church worker still, and entertains charmingly and, sometimes, on a pretentious scale in her handsome home on S street, just three doors from the private residence of Herbert Hoover.

Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, widow of the Vice President of the Wilson administration, has never lost her touch with Washington, and has been a frequent visitor here, her arrival always a signal for a round of entertainments. The Marshalls, like the Coolidges, who made a record as vice presidential diners out were so popular that the invitations came not only from those expected to entertain the second officer of the land and his lady but those anxious to do so for personal reasons as well.

Mrs. Walsh Guide.

Mrs. Marshall bore her share of the Wilson official entertainments brilliantly. She had for her guide and adviser in this important function of a Vice President's wife Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, well versed in the social life of Washington and whose personal popularity was remarkable. Mrs. Walsh, a woman of wealth and great civic and national vision, gave Mrs. Marshall the benefit of her experiences and guided her through many a shoal and cross-current of Washington society. A Democrat herself, Mrs. Walsh was one of the first women to be named as a committeewoman and delegate to a Democratic convention.

The levees of the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall at the old Shoreham Hotel, the long, handsome dining room being used for the receiving, are still brilliant pages in Washington's social history. Across the hall in the ballroom the Democratic belles and the Republican ones, too, and the members of the Diplomatic Corps danced and had such a good time. Mrs. Marshall usually stood with the Vice President and Mrs. Walsh at the head of the steps leading into the reception room to receive her guests. Mrs. Marshall was one of the few women who occupied the position of Second Lady of the Land who did not exercise her prerogative of not returning calls.

Returned Visitors' Calls.

Mrs. Marshall made a systematic duty to return all the calls possible of every one who called on her and the long list of names took many thousands of visiting cards while she was Second Lady of the Land. In a real spirit of camaraderie Mrs. Marshall welcomed Mrs. Coolidge to Washington when she became Second Lady of the Land and introduced her to her friends and the ladies of the Senate and the Coolidges even took over the Marshalls' vice presidential apartment in the New Willard.

Mrs. Marshall is responsible for the organization of the ladies of the Senate for war work. It has since been carried on as a social luncheon club and become a real power in the official life of the National Capital.

Mrs. Marshall worked and worked hard for the welfare agencies of the National Capital probably because her close friend, Mrs. Walsh, was a banner bearer in all such good works. Mrs. Marshall was particularly interested in the Children's Hospital and child health work. She adopted a small child of one of the frequenters of the day nursery whom she took home to give proper care to cure its state of malnutrition. This baby boy died and the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall were as bereft as actual parents.

PUBLIC PARKS UNIT PROFITS $41,235.96

488 Employes Were Added During Year, Report of Col. Grant Shows.

The sum of $41,235.96 was realized by the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks in the fiscal year ended last June on rents, concessions, lost and damaged property and the sale of scrap wood, according to the annual report of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, the director, to President Hoover.

An increase of 488 employes during the year was attributed by Col. Grant to the opening of the new Department of Commerce Building. The total number of employes in the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks on June 30 was 3,482, Col. Grant reported. Forty-five buildings and five memorials are maintained.

Col. Grant showed that the regular administrative and technical office force in his department is utilized as far as is practicable to perform all overhead work, not only for the seven regular divisions of the office, but also for the commissions or other special duties assigned to the director.

Improved methods and economies cited by Col. Grant included installation of better lighting equipment, a new drinking water system for the Land Office and old Patent Office Buildings, discontinuance of the electric generating plant in the State Department Building, elimination of the heating plant in the Winder Building, Seventeenth and F streets northwest, through connection with the State Department heating plant.

The public golf courses were used by 412,801 players during the year, picnic groves by 258,000 participants, tennis courts by 281,031 players and bathing pools by 103,587 persons, the report showed. Concessions of the Park Amusement Co., which operates the public golf courses and field houses in East and West Potomac Parks, at the Lincoln Memorial and the Rock Creek Park golf course and clubhouse will expire December 31 of this year, Col. Grant advised.

Seven unimproved reservations were improved with planting of trees and plants, 687 acres of property were cleared of dead and down timber and 696 loads of wood were salvaged and sent to the District's woodyard by the 250 men detailed each week by the District of Columbia employment committee, the report stated.

Snyder's back and warned him not to move.

One of the men donned a clerk's coat and looted the cash register. They then took $15 from Snyder's pockets. Then they took Snyder's keys and locked him in the store. The clerk crawled to the front of the store where he attracted the attention of passersby, who notified police.

The clerk expressed the belief that the men had studied the place before the holdup, because they knew where everything was kept.

Three months ago another clerk in the store was held up and robbed, then locked up in a back room.

Too Easy Paths Declared Sought

Rev. C. E. Buck Warns of Unpleasant Results Unless View Changes.

Speaking of Christianity and life in general, the Rev. Calvert E. Buck, superintendent of the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, told the congregation of St. Paul's Episcopal Church yesterday that the world is searching for smooth and easy paths to immortality.

"It is high time that this great church of ours wakes up to a new realization of the fact that the way of life is not always easy and smooth. There are difficulties and hardships and there must be an expenditure of energy. If we try to ignore these facts we are sure to find that there will be some very unpleasant results.

"In this generation we have come to think more of immortality than ever before, but we are looking for a smooth road thereto. The thought of immortality is the thing which gives us hope and courage to carry on no matter how heavy the burden, but we don't want to put forth any effort. If such a book, 'Immortality in Six Short, Easy Lessons,' were to be published, it would outstrip our best sellers in short order. Everything is being bent toward making life easy, and most difficulties we try to explain out of existence by ignoring them."

Liberals Indorse Italian Amnesty

Sending Commission to Europe for Study of Conditions, Aim.

A conference of Washington liberals, meeting last night in the Typographical Temple, indorsed the movement to put to a test the amnesty proclamation recently issued by Premier Mussolini. The plan of American liberals is to send to Italy a commission to investigate the conditions surrounding Italian political prisoners.

A local committee comprising Charles Edward Russell, author and lecturer; William J. Ghent, J. Mahlon Barnes, secretary of the Socialist party in Washington; I. Geraci, leader of the local anti-Fascist League, and Harlan E. Glazier, was appointed to cooperate with the New York joint committee for Italian political prisoners.

The conference was addressed by Charles Edward Russell and by Girolamo Valenti, editor of La Stampa Libera, of New York.

It was announced that a letter had been sent to Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, urging him to aid in the program for the relief of the Italian political prisoners.

Rupp to Contest Seating of Davis

Petition Is Being Prepared for Presentation to Senate.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—S. Davis Wilson, chairman of the Roosevelt Independent State committee, said tonight Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, Democratic candidate for United States senator, has definitely decided to contest the seating of Senator James J. Davis. The decision was reached, Wilson announced, when he and Rupp conferred here tonight.

Wilson said he was preparing a petition for submission to the Senate asking that Davis be ejected and that Rupp be seated in his place.

"The petition will charge wholesale irregularities and fraud," Wilson said. "It will assert that a change of 85,000 votes in the State would bring about the election of Mr. Rupp instead of the Republican candidate, and it will show that 70,000 assisted votes were cast in Philadelphia alone."

Rupp ran approximately 160,000 votes behind Davis, the official count showed.

JAMES JONES, ONCE RESIDENT HERE, DIES

West Virginia Coal Official, Who Died Friday, Ran for Senate in 1930.

James Elwood Jones, prominent coal operator of West Virginia, who died Friday at his home in Switchback, W. Va., was a former resident of Washington.

Mr. Jones was stricken with a heart attack while playing a game of cards with his physician, Dr. I. C. Peterson. He had suffered from a heart ailment for several years.

In 1930 Mr. Jones ran for the United States Senate on the Republican ticket. He won the nomination over a field of three other active candidates, but was defeated in the succeeding election. He was a member of the McDowell County Court for 24 years and was elected for the seventh term at a recent election.

During the time he lived in Washington Mr. Jones made his home at 2534 Belmont road northwest. He was vice president and general manager of the Pocahontas Fuel Co., a large producing company with operations in southern West Virginia and Virginia.

Jenkins Jones, Mr. Jones' father, came to this country from Wales when he was a boy and in 1882 opened the first mine in Pocahontas after starting in the coal business as a laborer. One of the operations in McDowell County was named for the father.

Mr. Jones was educated at Roanoke College, Salem, Va., and at Columbia University, where he took a course in mining engineering. At the completion of his education he became associated with his father in the operation of the coal properties, and had been general manager of them for a number of years.

Mr. Jones was known throughout the State and particularly in his home district for his philanthropies. He financed the McDowell County dental clinic for many years, and sent many young people from that district to college.

The survivors are the widow, a son, James Jones, of Boston, and a daughter, Miss Nancy Jones, who is attending school in Paris, France.

Gambling Czar to Landlord, Blow Dealt Gould by Slump

Paris, Nov. 27 (U.P.).—The pinch of hard times along the French Riviera has turned Frank Jay Gould from the world's foremost gambling czar into a mere landlord to a gambling syndicate, it was learned today.

The syndicate, made up of six men, has been formed to take over Gould's vast casino and hotel activities, representing an estimated investment of more than $10,000,000.

Gould's great Palais de la Mediterrane, at Nice, held to be the most lavishly designed gaming casino in the world, and his new gambling palace at Juan-les-Pines are included in the properties to be taken over by the syndicate.

The $5,000,000 Palais de la Mediterrane has not been opened yet this year, though heretofore the opening always has been early in November.

Other properties included in the deal are the Hotel Majestic at Nice and the luxurious Provencal Hotel at Juan-les-Pins, between Cannes and Nice.

Gould, son of the late Jay Gould, voluntarily exiled himself from the United States in 1913 and established his name on the Riviera—especially that stretch along the Mediterranean known as the Cote d'Azur—prior to the coming of world-wide depression in 1929. He built his success on the boom days, when pleasure-seekers capable of paying fancy prices ranged up and down the Riviera by thousands.

His various ventures have now turned into so many white elephants, even though the Palais de la Mediterrane led all other French casinos in table profits last year, gaining a total of more than 21,000,000 francs.

The new syndicate will include Jean Medecin, Mayor of Nice, and Ernest Boudoin, Gould's casino manager. The syndicate will rent the various casinos and hotels at an annual price of 2,000,000 francs, beginning December 1.

This rental rate represents really less than 1 per cent on Gould's investment on the Riviera, but it is understood he has decided it will be better to receive a slight income rather than to operate at a loss.

The winter season threatens to be the poorest yet, even though the arrival of James J. Walker, former Mayor of New York, has brought a slight revival of interest.

Gould's other casinos in northern France, particularly at Grandville and Bagnolles de L'Onne, are not included in the Riviera deal.

It was learned that Gould is not worried about his personal fortune, since it is well distributed in paper mills and chocolate factories. He was not hit hard by the Wall street crash, having disposed of his holdings in the United States before 1929 and reinvested abroad.

SWEETHEART ADMITS SLAYING GIRL OF 15

But Failed to Go Through With Suicide Pact; Body Was Buried in Woods.

Doylestown, Pa., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Charles Arnwine, former foundry worker and ball player, confessed today, authorities said, that he killed 15-year-old Frances Rempfer, of Newtown, in a suicide pact, but that he "didn't have the nerve to go through with it."

Arnwine broke down after many hours of questioning, police said, and gave a graphic description of the shooting on the night the attractive, red-haired victim disappeared from her home two weeks ago. Her body, with a bullet through the heart, was found in a lonely woods west of Newtown late yesterday.

"We had a suicide pact," County Detective Antonio Russo quoted Arnwine, "but I didn't have the nerve to go through with it."

First Claimed Suicide.

"We did it because she was mistreated at home.

"She loved me and I loved the kid, too. We made the agreement that I was to kill her and then I was to kill myself."

Arnwine, twice married and father of three children, was taken into custody last Thursday in connection with the girl's disappearance and later was formally charged with having attacked her.

Police said he was divorced from his first wife and estranged from the second.

Seated in the office of District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn, the prisoner first declared, investigators said, the girl had killed herself in his automobile and that he had taken her body to a thicket known as Double Woods, west of Newtown, and covered it with an old mattress.

Shooting Is Reenacted.

Following prolonged questining, he retracted this version, police stated, and told of the "suicide pact" after Dr. John J. Sweeney, Bucks County coroner, who performed an autopsy last night, said the course taken by the bullet showed it would have been impossible for the girl to have fired the shot.

"The bullet took a downward course after entering the left breast," the coroner explained, "indicating that the pistol was fired from behind as if it had been placed against the girl's body and fired downward."

Bearing out this theory, police said Arnwine reenacted the shooting, telling them how he held the pistol in his right hand, put his arm around the girl's neck and, after kissing her good-by, pulled the trigger.

"Then," Russo quoted Arnwine, "I lost my nerve. I found an old mattress nearby and covered her with it. Then I drove home, cleaned the pistol and put it back in my brother's dresser."

Will Be Charged Today.

Previously Arnwine had told of meeting the Rempfer girl about 1:30 in the morning, a short time before her death, and of driving out to Double Woods, police said. He was taken out there today and located a pair of gloves worn by the girl on the night she was slain. He also named over, police said, the empty shell fired from the gun.

The girl was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rempfer, of Newtown, and until last year had been a student at the local high school. She was described as large for her years. Her father is a foreman printer for a weekly newspaper at Newton

While his daughter's fate still was a mystery, Rempfer lodged the attack charges against Arnwine which led to the latter's arrest.

District Attorney Eastburn said a formal charge of murder would be placed against Arnwine tomorrow. He added that he might be tried at the next session of the Buck's County court of oyer and terminer, which opens December 5.

U. S. MAY GET BID TO PEACE MEETING of the Manchurian question recalled references to the issue in the New York speech made last August by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

When hostilities broke out between armed forces of Japan and China in Manchuria in September, 1931, the League Council invited the United States to confer as to its bearing on the Briand-Kellogg pact.

"We promptly accepted the invitation, designating a representative to meet with the council for that purpose," said Secretary Stimson. "The hostilities continued * * * the American Government maintained its attitude of sympathetic cooperation with the efforts of the council and * * * endeavored to reinforce the council's efforts at conciliation."

The United States informed Japan and China, on January 7, 1932, that it would not recognize any "situation, treaty or agreement" which might be brought about contrary to the covenant and obligations of the Kellogg-Briand pact.

Later the league assembly, Japan excepted, took a similar stand. The Japanese government instructed its delegates yesterday to participate in the league assembly if the Manchurian issue is transferred there, but to enter in the record of tomorrow's council meeting that Japan would regret such action. Japan took the view the council should complete disposition of the Manchurian issue.

Chinese Plea to League Defies Manchukuo Rule

(Associated Press.)

A declaration to the League of Nations that "we will not permit the puppet organization known as Manchukuo to exist" was included in a telegram made public last night by the Chinese Legation as coming from 15 military leaders of the Chinese volunteers in Manchuria.

The volunteers' leaders, including Gens. Ma Chan-Shan, Ting-Chao, Li-Tuh and Su Ping-Wen, charged in the communication that Japan "disregarded completely the resolutions of the league" and created Manchukuo.

It said the number of Chinese volunteers in the region had risen to a million since last year, "everywhere fighting the enemy." The legation abstract accused Japanese soldiery of having demolished places in which the volunteers had appeared, and added that "the number of innocent people who have been slaughtered has reached no less than 50,000."

Mrs. Hoover Urges Women To Increase Relief Efforts

All Are Asked to Serve as Volunteers in Work of National Welfare Committee to End Suffering of Needy During Winter.

(Associated Press.)

Every woman in America was urged last night by Mrs. Herbert Hoover to consider herself a volunteer associate member of the national women's committee of welfare and relief mobilization of 1932.

The mobilization effort was organized several months ago with Newton D. Baker as chairman and Mrs. Nicholas Brady as chairman of the women's committee.

"Today I would like to have a moment at first to make the plea," Mrs. Hoover said in her address at the White House, "that one of our most important duties is to find when, how and where are the people to be helped.

"The winter is upon us. We cannot be warm, in the house or without, we can not sit up to a table sufficiently supplied with food if we do not know that it is possible for every child, every woman and man in these United States also to be sufficiently fed and warmed if they will take the necessary first steps toward obtaining it.

"We do know that in our country there is an ample supply of food and clothing for us all. We do know that with efficient cooperation there is money enough in our country to pay for all that will be needed by those who have not the money to pay for it themselves—through no fault of their own, this year.

"We do know that we must give generously, individually; that generous provision must be made by city and town, by county and state; even as the Nation has provided generously for a reserve fund for any of these areas to fall back upon, if their own combined resources prove inadquate.

"And we must know that the distribution facilities through the innumerable committees and other organizations all over our country are adequate to reach all of those reported in need.

"To this purpose the mobilization of all the welfare and relief organizations in our country was established in the early autumn in order that they might all work together to the best advantage."

The First Lady suggested three services volunteer workers might render to those in distress:

First, in finding those who because they have never needed aid before are ashamed to ask for it, and in determining how these people may be aided without hurting their pride; second, by adding "her assistance to any movement legislative or otherwise," designed to keep the hospitals and visiting nurse associations maintained; third, to help provide a means of recreation for those who are not getting it and "a cheerful place to which each of our unemployed young people may turn, not only for ease and relaxation, but for educational advantages."

"I ask each and every one of us to consider ourselves volunteer associated members of this Nation-wide group," Mrs. Hoover concluded, "to give not only a helping hand, but a willing ear and an understanding heart to those in little or great need about us."

THE POST TOY FUND TAKES BIG JUMP OVER WEEK-END

give Christmas thrills to unfortunate tots who might otherwise be denied any yuletide happiness. So send in your rag dolls, your wooly dogs and fuzzy teddy bears and they will all be made fresh and new again and will become an important addition to the toys that will be distributed to the poor children on Christmas morning.

The Post Toy and Doll Fund is like a snowball, the way it gathers up interest and good will and grows in size day by day. Every contribution, no matter how small, makes the Post Toy and Doll Fund a little larger. Let's all get back of it and push it along until it is big enough to insure every needy child in Washington a Merry Christmas. When that happens we can decorate the huge snowball with a piece of holly and the heartfelt thanks of thousands, yes, thousands of Washington children who, it is hoped, can be made happy through this fund.

Newspaper folk are proverbially kind-hearted and give of their means quietly and without blazoning it forth to the world. Down in the Circulation Department of The Washington Post the other night the men got to talking of The Post Toy and Doll Fund. "My, that will be fine for the kiddies," said one of the men as they waited for the first edition to roar off the throbbing giant presses that print the "Capital's Greatest Newspaper" every morning, the year around.

"Let's give them a hand," suggested somebody. It was a long way off from pay day and wallets had gotten thin with family demands of turkey and other goodies for Thanksgiving. But the nickels and dimes swelled finally into an offering of $3 and it was turned into the fund under the modest caption: "Inasmuch as."

By the way, this incident recalls the fact that one of the loveliest Christmas poems was inspired by a like effort of a newspaper to make a Merry Christmas for the needy children of a great city. For there have been needy children before at Yuletide, when there was no depression.

This newspaper fund—it was in Chicago—attracted the interest of a man who worked on the paper and who loved little children and often wrote for them. He was Eugene Field, the gentle American poet and a newspaper columnist; in fact, one of the first of that branch of the craft.

Eugene Field sat down and wrote this poem and, it is said, dedicated it to the fund. Perhaps it will help some to remember the needy little ones of Washington at Yuletide if it is reprinted:

STAR OF THE EAST.

Star of the East, that long ago
Brought wise men on their way
Where, angels singing to and fro,
The Child of Bethlehem lay—
Thou shinest out tonight, O Star!

Star of the East, the night were drear,
But for the tender grace
That with thy glory comes to cheer,
Earth's loneliest, darkest place.
For by that charity we see
Where there is hope for all and me.

Star of the East, show us the way
In wisdom undefiled
To seek that manger out and lay
Our gifts before the Child—
To bring our hearts and offer them
Unto our King in Bethlehem.

"To bring our hearts and offer them." That is the keynote of The Post Toy and Doll Fund. For, unless those who read this story are filled with the spirit of Christian charity and have hearts filled with love of little children, it may not appeal very much to them. But anyone who has witnessed the joy of a lonely little child over an unexpected gift can imagine how little faces will light up with smiles on Christmas morning when, into desolate homes, has come the glad light of giving and "Santa Claus has been there" through the help given by The Post Toy and Doll Fund.

Ding-How of Hydegree, mascot of The Junior Post and editor of its Pets' Corner, was matched again yesterday. This time it was by two turtles, Xantippe and Socrates, who live in a glass house in Ding-How's home. These wise animals may not say much, but they can hear a great deal and heard Ding-How telling a friend over the telephone about The Post Toy and Doll Fund. So, from under a rock in their swimming pool, they fished out two precious dimes and turned them over to the fund. Then came $1 to match Ding-How from "Bussie," who sent in her offering through a human friend. Thanks, Bussie. Ding-How has you on his special list for mention in the Pets' Corner as an understanding young lady.

All contributions should be addressed to The Post Toy and Doll Fund. All gifts received will be acknowledged through the columns of The Washington Post.

Tel. Clar. 509 Clarendon, Va.

Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma, has been invited as guest speaker at the Democratic Victory banquet to be held Thursday night in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon by the Arlington County Democratic Committee, the Arlington County Woman's Democratic Club, the Young Democratic Club and the Men's Club, according to announcement yesterday by County Chairman William L. Bragg.

Other speakers and the complete program of entertainment, of which Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, president of the Arlington County Woman's Democratic Club, is in charge, will be announced later.

The committee on arrangements includes William L. Bragg, general chairman; Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, Mrs. Isabel Davis and Mrs. Bates, of the Woman's Club; C. W. Lee, E. T. Fenwick and Lee Lloyd, of the Men's Club, and Lyman M. Kelley and Miss Josephine Sterling, of the Young Democratic Club.

The banquet will be served by the ladies of the Clarendon Rebekah Lodge.

The period of grace for Arlington County motorists who failed to have their cars tested in accordance with the State law for brakes, lights and steering prior to November 16, expired yesterday and henceforth all violators will be haled into court, State traffic officers say.

Thus far no fines have been imposed, but in the future when cases come into court the fine including costs will amount to $19.25.

Mrs. N. R. Davies, Arlington County school nurse, will be principal speaker at a meeting to be held Thursday night by the Parent-Teacher Association of the Matthew Fontaine Maury School at Clarendon. She will talk on her activities as a school nurse.

The program will include an entertainment to be presented by pupils of the second grade.

Tonight the executive committee of the association will meet at the home of H. J. Odenthal, 234 Marion avenue, Clarendon.

Reich May Return To Arms Session

Norman Davis Busy Trying to Reconcile German and French.

Paris, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Germany's return to the disarmament conference appeared in an informed quarter tonight to be a step nearer achievement as Norman Davis, American representative at the conference, pursued efforts to reconcile French and German disarmament viewpoints.

Mr. Davis, who is speeding the week-end here, will try to convince Premier Herriot in an interview tomorrow morning that he should go to Geneva this week for a five-power discussion, the purpose of which would be to pave the way for unrestricted German return to the conference, from which she has been absent since last August, it was learned on good authority tonight.

Mr. Davis was understood to have told Premier Herriot yesterday that Baron Konstantin von Neurath, acting German foreign minister, is willing to attend a five-power discussion, although Germany has not announced intention to participate in the disarmament conference proper.

Farm Federation Plans Plain Talk to Congress

Angry Man Tries Bluing as Poison.

Denver, Nov. 28 (A.P.).—After an altercation with his wife, John Lebhart threatened suicide, seized a bottle, gulped its contents, sputtered a farewell and vanished. Police and Mrs. Lebhart sought him, but they weren't worried about his condition. Indigestion is probably the worst thing he will suffer. The bottle contained ordinary laundry bluing.

HOME IN ALEXANDRIA DAMAGED BY BLAZE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
927 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Fire of undetermined origin caused damage of approximately $5,000 to the rear of the three-story brick dwelling at 109 North Alfred street, owned by Gen. John H. Russell, U. S. M. C., of Quantico, and leased to Senator Henry W. Keyes, of New Hampshire. A passing motorist saw smoke issuing from the building and turned in an alarm.

The house was leased from Gen. Russell, after he was ordered to Quantico for duty, by Senator Keyes, who moved his furniture and effects in, but the house was unoccupied as yet by the family. The house has an oil-burning plant, but it has not been operating this winter. The fire started in the basement and spread up the stairway.

The Soroptimist Club, of Washington, held its Bicentennial dinner in the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria, Saturday night, presided over by Mrs. Mary Katherine Lewis, and with Miss Janet Richards, noted current events speaker, as the principal speaker. Honor guests included Martha R. Servis, regional director, North Atlantic Region; Ruby Lee Minar, past president American Federation; Gertrude B. Galligher, president Soroptimist Club, of Baltimore; Mildred Duncan, Soroptimist Club, of Philadelphia; the regional directors and a number of members of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club.

A short talk was given by Isaac Gans, of Washington, and musical numbers were by Justin Lawrie, accompanied by Mrs. Lawrie.

Speaker Dies Denying Victory Was Wet One

Kansas City, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Dr. Charles D. Boardman, retired live stock marketing authority, died here today as he declared before a men's bible class that Democratic victories had been incorrectly interpreted as votes against prohibition.

In the middle of a speech Dr. Boardman, who was 78 years old, slid to the floor and died from a heart attack before first aid could be administered. The speaker, vice president of the class, had said "things are in a mess," and that the political change "came about because of the depression."

2 Testing Home-Made Plane Dead in Crash

Gallup, N. Mex., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Two men making a test flight in a home-made airplane were killed here late today when the craft crashed in a downtown street intersection and burst into flames after falling 700 feet.

The dead: J. D. Irick, 25, amateur pilot, and Jimmy Sneddon, passenger, who assisted in building the ship. Although the plane fell on one of the principal streets, no pedestrians or vehicles were struck.

Woman Is Convicted In Death of Recluse

Natchez, Miss., Nov. 26 (A.P.).—Emily Burns, Negro woman accused as an accessory in the murder last August of Miss Jane Surget Merrill, wealthy recluse, last night was found guilty as charged, but the jury was unable to agree on punishment.

Under the State law she must serve a life term in the penitentiary. Judge R. L. Corban will pass sentence Monday. The case went to the jury shortly after 11 o'clock and the verdict was returned in 30 minutes.

Chamber to Study Commutation Issue

Hyattsville Group to Meet Tonight on Proposed Ticket Change.

The Chamber of Commerce of Hyattsville, at its November meeting, in the Metropolitan District Building, at 8 o'clock tonight, will consider proposed changes in the form of the commutation ticket on the Washington Railway & Electric Co. trolley line.

For the past several weeks a study of the situation has been in progress by the public utilities committee of the chamber, M. T. May, chairman. It is proposed to substitute individual card tickets with numbers to be punched for the present form of strip tickets.

It is thought the form suggested may provide for a different number of trips and a ticket be provided for family use covering a longer period than the calendar month. The chamber has invited all persons interested to attend the meeting. Officials of the railway company are expected to be present.

OHIO STATE JUDGES WIN STOCK LAURELS

Spoor Trophy Quits Area West of Mississippi at Chicago Show.

Chicago, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The livestock judging laurels of American agricultural colleges rested east of the Mississippi today and Ohio State University sent the team that effected the transplantation.

It was a case of filching the coals from Newcastle. By scoring 4,598 points in the intercollegiate live-stock judging contest at the International Live Stock Exposition, Ohio carried the honors from the section where during the past decade they have almost vegetated.

Only twice since 1920 has the championship crossed the Mississippi. Purdue won it in 1929 and Ohio in 1921. In other years, schools of the great farming States of Iowa, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Kansas have made the contest a strictly regional affair.

The other leading teams in the competition decided early today were Kansas State Agricultural College, with 4,580 points; Illinois, 4,554; Ontario Agricultural College, of Guelph, Ont., 4,533, and Iowa State College, of Ames, Iowa, with 4,509.

Iowa won the championship last year; Oklahoma A. and M. in 1930. With Ohio and Purdue, they now are exerting a four-way pull on the Spoor trophy, donated by the late J. A. Spoor, one-time chairman of the International's executive board. To the college winning the contest three times will go permanent possession of the prize.

Agriculture retired to the wings today and society, in trappings of the hunt and "white collar" stable, rode into the arena for the horse show. The theme song of the fair became the clarion blasts of a red-frocked bugler, as the bovine symphony died away.

Grain experts were cloistered in various side halls, seeking to determine the choicest crops from among over 5,000 entries. Only one major award in this department has been conferred. T. E. Smith, of Darby, Mont., exhibited the champion and reserve champion samples of barley.

Londoners Scared By Sudden Flood

Worst Overflow Since 1928 Fails to Result in Casualties.

London, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The worst flood alarm riverside Londoners have experienced since January, 1928, when eleven persons drowned, occurred tonight, but passed without casualties. Some basements and low living streets were flooded. At one place on the Victoria embankment, people alighting from or boarding tramcars had to wade through deep pools.

Extra police and special watchers were busy throughout the night checking the rise of water, ready to warn dwellers to quit their homes in case of necessity. Many spent hours watching the Thames River and mothers took their children to safer places.

The new defensive works on which London has spent many thousands of pounds since 1928 met the strain successfully, but several weak spots, where water seeped through, were revealed. The rise was due to abnormally high tide, coinciding with a strong northeast wind, which drove the water inland at an unusual speed.

Anti-Fascists Blamed in Plane Fire.

Paris, Nov. 27 (U.P.).—Anti-Fascists were accused tonight of having destroyed a Caproni airplane, on exhibition at the Aeronautical Exposition in the Grand Palais. The plane was destroyed by fire last night after a mysterious explosion. It was the second time in two years that a Caproni plane has been destroyed or damaged in a Paris exhibit.

INDIANA YOUTH BEST IN 4-H COMPETITION

West Point Boy Is Judged National Champion in Chicago Contest.

Chicago, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Floyd Weaver, 19-year-old farm lad from West Point, Ind., has been adjudged the national champion Four-H live stock boy, the national committee on boys' and girls' club work announced today.

Successful conduct of animal husbandry projects, including 15 beef animals, 64 pigs and 5 breeding sheep during the last year, his ninth in Four-H Club work, won for Weaver his title, which carries with it a $300 agricultural college scholarship and a free trip to the eleventh national club congress, being held here this week in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition.

Two runners-up to Weaver will also receive scholarships and prize trips. They are William R. Bennett, of Bristol, W. Va., winner of a $200 scholarship, and Vernon Epting, of Prosperity, S. C., recipient of a $100 scholarship. A fourth winner, Joe Church, of New Plymouth, Idaho, will receive a trip to the club congress.

Gross returns of the 21 projects Weaver completed in his nine years of club work, including prizes from exhibits and contests, are estimated to have a value of $5,610.

"WHY DIDN'T I SAVE $15.80 On My Automobile Insurance?"

Consider these SAVINGS in the world's largest mutual casualty insurance company

THIS table shows how much the Liberty Mutual dividend has reduced the cost of complete insurance on cars and trucks in Washington. Liberty has paid substantial dividends to every policyholder every year for 20 years.

Lincoln, Cadillac, Packard Class up to . . .	$15.80
Ford, Chevrolet, Buick, Plymouth, Chrysler Class up to	$12.00
Trucks 1½ Tons or Less up to	$17.38

PARTIAL PAYMENTS if desired—Liberty's low-cost divided payment plan makes thousands of new friends every year.

IF I HAD bought the automobile insurance on my Cadillac direct from Liberty Mutual, I would have saved $15.80.

"My friends are saving money every year by insuring with Liberty, and they tell me they get prompt, competent service, if they have accidents or if they want information about any phase of their insurance.

"Naturally, my broker won't like it when I tell him I'm going to insure with Liberty—because they won't pay him a commission. But that's why Liberty is reducing the cost of insurance—their sales costs are only one-third as much as the average insurance company. I'm going to pay the commission I normally pay my broker, to myself.

"Liberty also saves money for policyholders by insuring careful drivers only. Policyholders in the Liberty don't have to help pay for a lot of accidents caused by irresponsible car-owners.

"Now, in the ordinary company, these savings wouldn't mean anything to me—but in the Liberty, they actually reduce my yearly premium. You see, Liberty is a mutual company—no stockholders to share in profits. In the Liberty, the profits made by selling direct and by careful selection of policyholders are paid back to policyholders.

"Liberty has saved and returned over $33,000,000 to its policyholders. I could have saved $15.80 on my premium this year. At the same time, Liberty has grown in size and strength—on June 30, 1932, it had Assets of $23,154,675; Reserves for Liabilities of $19,215,036; and a Surplus of $3,939,639."

ARE DEBTORS COMBINING?

The governments of Great Britain and France are preparing notes to be sent to the United States, apparently believing that a detailed statement of their condition and an emphatic warning of evil consequences to flow from refusal to grant their requests will result in postponement of the payments due next month. A London dispatch intimates that the British note may not be made public immediately, on account of its revelation of delicate matters affecting British finances. It is also reported that the French government will be made acquainted with the British note before it is dispatched, in accordance with the Anglo-French agreement reached at Lausanne, whereby each government promises to take no action which would be contrary to the interests of the other.

Inasmuch as the communications from the debtors will be forwarded to Congress by President Hoover, it is not clear how any part of the British note can be kept secret.

The fact that the debtors are acting practically in concert in their plea to the United States does not increase the probability of favorable action by Congress. Criticism has been made in London against the practice of previous consultation among the debtors, as it is believed that Britain might have obtained special favorable treatment if it had not acted in unison with France. But the disposition in Congress is to treat all foreign nations alike, without favoritism or discrimination.

In transmitting the notes from abroad President Hoover is expected to renew his recommendation for the creation of a debt-funding commission. His statement of Nov. 25 indicates, however, that he will ask for a commission with larger powers, sufficient to enable it to participate in the disarmament and economic conferences, with a view to taking coordinated steps toward the solution of the world's troubles.

Three strong objections may be raised against the creation of the proposed commission. First, it would be dealing with political, economic, and financial questions of the greatest moment, involving the making of treaties which the United States may not be prepared to make; second, its creation would be tantamount to an agreement to reduce or cancel the war debts; and third, the commission might go very far toward committing the new administration before the next President could exert his authority.

Refusal by Congress to create the proposed commission would defer the debt revision question until after March 4.

In their first notes, Great Britain and France asked that next month's payments be postponed for the purpose of paving the way for a conference on revision of the debts. No other reason for asking postponement was advanced. Secretary Stimson's reply virtually invited them to give other reasons, which they will now give. But Congress is very likely to make a point of the fact that the chief reason for postponement, as stated by the debtors themselves, was to open the way for debt reduction.

Secretary Stimson gave the debtor governments a strong hint that cheerful payment of the December installments might facilitate negotiations for debt revision instead of hindering them; but they do not take this hint. Indeed, there is no indication that the debtors are aware of the fact that the President has no power to postpone the payments. Apparently their forthcoming notes will be an appeal to the executive rather than to Congress.

If there should be such similarity between the British and French notes as to convince Congress that the two debtors are joining in a concerted attempt to cancel the war debts the effect may be a declaration by Congress of such a decisive character as to serve warning upon the next President that neither party will go along with him in any moves to reopen the debt question.

AN ECONOMIC PANORAMA.

An interesting factual review of economic events in the last fiscal year is presented in the annual report of the Secretary of Commerce. People who are pondering over the intricate problems of business recovery may turn to this report and find an accurate and concise epitome of the major economic factors that were in operation last year.

Economic activity continued to decline throughout the world in 1931-32. In the United States the total production of mines and factories declined 20 per cent. The output was the smallest for any fiscal year since the war, but it was slightly above the calendar year 1921. Export trade held up somewhat better than domestic production, and import trade was prosperous in comparison with conditions of American industry. Measured in physical volume exports were 17 per cent below the previous year and imports only 6 per cent below. These facts thoroughly discredit the theory that loss of foreign trade is the cause of depression in the United States. This country still has the largest export trade in the world, and is second only to Great Britain in the value of its imports.

The cause of disastrous price declines during the last year is graphically illustrated by that section of the report dealing with world stocks of goods. The volume of manufactured goods on hand was reduced 9 per cent during the year. Consequently, the industrial group of commodities fell only 9 per cent in price. Industry has been putting its house in order by adjusting output to demand. But excessive stocks of raw materials continue to accumulate. In the United States the supply of raw materials is 9 per cent higher than a year ago and for the world the increase is 12 per cent. Cotton stocks are 150 per cent above the 1923-25 average; wheat stocks, 140 per cent; sugar, 240 per cent; coffee, 400 per cent. The inevitable result of such a condition is a collapse of prices for raw materials. Farm products lost about 33 per cent of their value and prices of other raw materials are substantially lower.

This set of facts immediately suggests what is wrong with the raw material industries. They have failed to adjust supply to demand. The excessive accumulation of stocks has had disastrous effects upon their prices. Since this condition is general throughout the world, American farmers and other producers of raw materials can not look to an extension of foreign markets for a solution of their problems. All over the world farmers have gone on producing without regard to markets in the hope that they might sell large quantities of their output abroad. They are now faced with the fact that the world market is glutted and that larger stocks are constantly accumulating. Unless production is curtailed low prices may be expected to prevail. It is not yet clear how curtailment is to be brought about, but something will be accomplished if all producers can be made to realize that that is the crux of their dilemma.

SHORTER WORKING HOURS.

Realization of a shorter work week was brought closer at hand by the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. The federation emphatically refused to consider a proposed amendment to the Constitution for the purpose of putting the six-hour day and the five-day week into effect. Only practical methods of achieving their goal will be considered by the organized workmen of America. Their sound judgment presages cooperation between labor and industry to introduce the shorter week wherever it is practicable.

Industrial leaders are engaged in promotion of a share-the-work movement throughout the country. They are urging shorter hours as an emergency measure to give more workmen a chance to earn a livelihood, but this movement will doubtless pave the way for shorter hours on a permanent basis. Machine production has advanced to a stage where the entire manpower of the country is not needed for eight hours per day during six days a week to supply the demands of the consuming public. Wherever shorter hours are found advantageous during this emergency period they will doubtless be continued in effect.

With labor leaders and industrialists in agreement as to the advisability of shortening the work week no great difficulty should be encountered in application of the principle. If only part of the army of unemployed could be put back to work in this way, some sort of equilibrium would be established. Purchasing power would be more evenly distributed, and when it is possible to advance wages, the increase will be quickly translated into greater demands for goods. In the past shorter hours have always been associated with higher wages, and there is ample reason to believe that the same result will follow the present movement for a shorter week, if it is carried out on a cooperative basis.

COST OF READING MATTER.

Along with a good many other superlatives, Americans spend more on material for their newspapers, magazines and books than the readers of any country in the world. The national bill for news, light reading and literature is estimated at no less than $240,000,000 a year. This is not simply a guess, but has been figured out by Wilfred J. Funk, well known publisher and author, who has compiled the best available figures.

The 1,900 daily newspapers in the country pay some 30,000 editors and writers $90,000,000 a year. The literary supplies for magazines cost $50,000,000, for weekly papers, $36,000,000, and for books, $40,000,000. This last item includes all amounts paid to authors, such as royalties and fees. The news services have become an important feature of American life, and now spend $9,000,000 annually for editorial work. Moving pictures pay authors for scenarios, continuity work, etc., $10,000,000, as against only $2,500,000 received in royalties by authors of stage plays.

It is estimated that there are approximately 100,000 persons in the United States who earn money by writing. If their total earnings were divided equally they would receive about $2,400 each a year. Since this is by no means the case it is evident that the profession provides a very meagre living for many of those who depend upon it exclusively. The figures cited here refer only to the outlay for writers and editors. They leave much to the imagination as to the total cost of reading matter and dramatic entertainment, when all the other expenditures for advertising, production and distribution are considered.

CHRISTMAS SEALS.

Organized efforts in the fight against tuberculosis are credited with having saved 150,000 lives last year. Not many decades ago tuberculosis was the foremost cause of death in the United States. Now it has fallen to fifth place in the list of deadly diseases. It still claims about 90,000 lives each year, but remarkable progress has been made by united public effort.

The importance of this work to Washingtonians is illustrated by the fact that nearly 600 residents of the District succumbed to tuberculosis in the last year. The number might have been twice that large but for the systematic fight carried on by the National Tuberculosis Association and other health promoting agencies.

The fight against the great white plague is a community project. Every case of tuberculosis is a menace to the neighborhood in which the victim lives. Community effort is required, therefore, to stamp it out. The American people have shown a remarkable understanding of this problem, and keen appreciation of the work that is being carried on to meet it, by contributing upwards of $5,000,000 each year through the purchase of Christmas seals.

Washington is fortunate in having a Children's Tuberculosis Sanatorium under construction. But that will not remove the need for funds to carry on the work of the anti-tuberculosis association here. It is estimated that 4,000 children are suffering with the plaque in the District. With proper care and treatment most of them can be cured, and the disease can be prevented from spreading to thousands of others. This work must not be allowed to lapse.

Last year people of the District furnished $40,000 for this work through the purchase of Christmas seals. This year the Washington Tuberculosis Association needs $50,000. A small increase in the allotment of each family for this important cause will bring large dividends in greater protection against an internecine disease.

NEW SHIPS OF WAR.

From the New York Herald-Tribune.

On October 1 the German government ordered work to be started on the third "pocket battleship;" and on October 26 M. Georges Leygues, the French minister of marine, began construction of the 26,500-ton Dunkerque, the first battleship to be undertaken by a treaty power since the vessels provided for at the Washington conference in 1922. In a special interview with the Paris Herald M. Leygues has now taken pains to explain that France cannot be accused, because of this recrudescence of battleship construction, of expanding her armaments or forcing a new race. This, indeed, is obvious. The French are merely utilizing for the first time a portion of the battleship tonnage which has been allowed to them ever since Washington, while the character of the new vessel is sufficient proof that she is a direct answer to the German building.

Restricted by the Versailles Treaty, the Germans naturally turned all their ingenuity into the task of producing the most dangerous and effective weapons possible within the limits allowed them. They succeeded admirably. When completed, their fleet of four pocket battleships will be able to raid French Northern African communications almost with impunity—if they can once get out of the North Seat past the French submarines. There is nothing in the French navy wherewith to oppose them. The French cruisers have sacrificed everything to speed and are not only lightly gunned but almost without armor protection. The French might put their pre-war dreadnoughts on convoy duty; even so, their old 13.4-inch guns would be outranged by the 11-inch guns of the Germans, while the latter possess the superiority of speed which permits them to choose the range.

Consequently, the French are dipping into their allowed battleship tonnage to produce something that will definitely outclass the Deutschland. The result actually is nearer to the discredited battle cruiser of Jutland days than to the modern battleship. The Dunkerque is designed for 30 knots (two more than the Deutschland) and will mount nine 13-inch guns against the six 11-inch in the German vessels.

POST HASTE

Five years' work brought reasonable agreement to limit the production of American oil wells. There are twenty times as many farmers, so the first century will be the hardest.

It really is a pity that so many decidedly opposed to the coming Communist demonstration find it necessary to give them the thing they want most and couldn't buy—advertising.

After all, wouldn't it be something of a relief if all those debtor nations decided to default so that we could make the entry in the profit and loss account and be done with it?

Prompt and efficient in everything, Henry Ford confronted a serious complication Saturday, but he finished the operation the same afternoon.

Be resigned for another campaign next month to stigmatize those who oppose cash payment of the bonus as enemies of the veterans.

The beer boys haven't much patience with all this talk about "intoxicating in fact"—in effect is what interests them.

After its futile attempts to pick a cabinet head, Germany must begin to realize the value of the French system of having a group of experienced old-timers ready to supply a premier of any complexion.

Dr. Lowell, retiring president of Harvard University, is suggested for the next ambassador to London. Wouldn't a man with experience as bailiff be better?

You can't tell about things in China, not since a censorship has been clamped down; but why, after everything bad has been said about conditions there?

If the European nations don't pay the December debt installments, but proceed to blow in ten times as much on armaments, of course, everything will be all right over there.

DEATH.

I know no duller life than this:
My safety guaranteed.
No goal to strive for and to miss
No ever-pressing need.

No doubt to face, no pain to dread,
No cherished dreams in vain,
No loss to bear! The sahy dead
Alone are free from pain.

The silent dead have ceased to fret
Or feel life's weight of care;
They're done with all the mounting debt
The living have to bear.

And though at times the path seems long
And hopelessly we strive,
The very fact we suffer wrong
Is proof that we're alive.

You Must Screen the Fire If the Children Are Stupid Enough to Forget Burns

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE burned child fears the fire. That fear is proof of the child's intelligence. Remembering its pain, the child says to itself: "I must avoid fire to avoid hurt."

That process is the only one by which anybody learns. Experience is the only teacher whose lessons are effective. Ten thousand wrecks can not convince us that fast driving is dangerous, but one experience in court or in a hospital usually makes an impression deep enough to cure us of our folly.

This depression might prove an ultimate blessing if we were wise enough to profit by its lessons, but each individual's gain in wisdom will be proportioned to his investment in folly. Smith will not repeat his own mistake, but he isn't convinced by the punishment Jones suffers for another kind of imbecility.

How many are at last convinced that crookedness doesn't pay?

It seemed to pay while the boom continued. Men lined their pockets by selling worthless stock or by speculating with money entrusted to their keeping. They lived high by leaving their bills unpaid. They found innumerable ways to trick and swindle people who thought them honest.

But they aren't profiting now. They are in jail or in hiding. Or they are bankrupt and trying in vain to obtain credit from men who wouldn't trust them with a nickel.

They know crookedness doesn't pay. They made the depression and were broken in the wreckage. They know at last that men reap what they sow.

But what of the unhurt? Are there not millions who still say: "It was the depression that exposed them. Trimming suckers is the way to get rich if you're smart enough to get away with it."

And what of the gullible ones who lost their life savings and mortgaged their future in the effort to get rich quickly?

Some of them are wiser. They will not again trust a prominent citizen who offers them something for nothing. They have learned.

But the millions who lost little or nothing will learn nothing from the common ruin. They will deliver their savings to the first polite swindler who offers them a way to get money without earning it.

The other man's experience teaches no lesson, and the present ruin will be repeated again and again until the law combats all swindlers as it now combats counterfeiters.

POLITICAL COMMENT

British Payments.

New York Herald Tribune.

That the foreign exchange market had looked for some relief on this payment is clear from the fact that sterling has fallen approximately 13 cents within the last ten days. There is a widespread tendency to think of the payment on December 15 by England simply as the resumption of a process that was under way before the Hoover moratorium. Nothing, however, could be a more complete misunderstanding of the situation. It can not be stressed too much that at no time since the war has Great Britain hitherto had to raise more than a small part of the exchange necessary for her semiannual payments to us. Up to now she has always either been able to borrow the funds here or has received them indirectly through reparation payments from Germany.

There are seeds of dissension in the present coalition. In due season the Progressives will advise the Democracy of its demands. If they are rebuffed, there will be political war. Supreme Court Wouldn't Tell.

New York Times.

Persons in the confidence of President Hoover said on Saturday that if Congress passes a bill to modify the Volstead act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of beer he will veto it. The main reason given is that he would consider it a nullification of the eighteenth amendment. But that is not for him to decide. It is a question ultimately for the Supreme Court. Its decision upholding the Volstead act did not decide the exact percentage of alcohol in beer which would be constitutional. It expressly withheld an opinion on that subject.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

J. Johnson Smashes a Few Delusions. Depression Caused by Crazy Speculation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It may be a delusion that gold is a fixed unchanging standard of money. Maybe wheat, corn and hogs did not go down. Maybe gold went up. Who knows?

It is a delusion that this country can coin silver free without losing all its gold. The restoration of bimetallism might cure the depression, but this bimetallism must come by agreement on a ratio by the leading nations.

I believe it is a delusion that the World War caused the present worldwide depression. The world had recovered, so much so, that it went crazy in 1929 and overplayed its hand.

It is a delusion that the tariff caused the depression. The tariff made our country, and it is the mother hen sheltering jobs of which there will be plenty to go round when confidence returns and our people rebuild their homes, stores, roads, bridges and railroads.

It is a delusion that a new standard of money will help things, for a new standard will not raise the purchasing power of the vast stores of silver in the Orient.

It is a delusion that railroad presidents are worth such salaries at $135,000 per year.

It is a delusion that there is overproduction. There are underconsumption and bad distribution.

J. JOHNSON.

District Should Be Barred to Communist Marchers as a Disorderly Assembly.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is encouraging to observers how one of these Communists demonstrations was dealt with a few days ago by the District officials: A peaceable (?) assembly was organized and petition prepared for presentation to the Government, which was represented by the President in the White House. A cordon of police patrolled an area around the White House and effectively prevented both assembly within that area and the delivery of the petition. That action was perfectly proper. The assembly was known to be for subversive purposes and the petition was admittedly Communists propaganda. The proposed "march" is known to be for the same purposes. Then, with this precedent, why not simply extend the prohibited area to embrace the entire District with respect to assembly; permitting, however, a small delegation to petition Congress.

JAMES BENNY.

Weak Beer Will Bring Protest and Fail to Yield Revenue.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There seems to be some dispute among congressmen as to what percentage of alcohol to allow in beer. Some of them suggest 2.75 per cent. Here is a note of warning. I believe the object of restoring beer is to give the people a palatable drink, do away to a great extent with bootleggers and beer runners and provide an income for the Government.

A weak beverage like 2.75 per cent beer will accomplish none of the above objects and will be merely a waste of time, with the ultimate triumphant crowing of the drys—"I told you so!"

The percentage of alcohol in beer should be the same as that in usage in 1914. This was a palatable drink that provided much revenue and satisfied the imbiber.

The fact must be acknowledged that the people want a beverage with a little kick in it, though mild. There is absolutely none in 2.75 beer, and therefore the beer runner and bootlegger will continue to flourish and the Government will not reap the rich revenue anticipated.

I suggest it would be a good idea if we wrote our congressmen and, for the above reasons, suggested that beer contain at least 3.50 per cent, or that the brewers be allowed to manufacture their product according to the formula they used prior to the war.

Let us all get after them before it is too late. WALTER ANDERSON.

Unemployed Organize to Help Themselves, and Doing a Good Job.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish that your great paper would give recognition and commendation to the work of the orderly organization of the unemployed in many of our cities.

In Waterloo, Iowa, for example, these men are organizing to help themselves and others who are in need. They offer their services to the farmers in exchange for food and fuel. In the same way they went to Minnesota and brought home carloads of potatoes for use of their families. In various ways they are aiding in the problem of relief. This organization of the unemployed might not be so feasible in a metropolitan city, but the spirit of these men is one which deserves wide publicity. It will counteract communistic tendencies.

To me this outgrowth of the depression is an exemplification of the finest attributes of American character. This is the spirit which has made America a great Nation.

If liquor is to be had more easily and legally, just what is the correct, proper proportion in which to mix our gin and gasoline? R. H. S.

MINISTER PREACHES ON 'CONFIRMATION'

Its Benefits Are Described by Rev. A. J. Wilder at St. Andrew's Church.

"Confirmation means I can claim all the resources of God for my protection, all the strength of Christ for my conflicts, all the inspiration of the Holy Ghost for the day of despair," said the Rev. A. J. Wilder, preaching yesterday morning at St. Andrew's Church.

The minister spoke on the subject of "Confirmation." He said in part:

"Christ founded a kingdom, a realm wherein ideals were to reign. Entrance into his kingdom is by baptism, a supernationalization, as that of a foreign-born into United States citizenship.

"Many have brought children, placing them in the arms of God's minister, typifying the giving of their life and powers to Him who gave that life. You godparents have done more than that; you have stood beside the font and pledged for the child those beliefs and duties which are a prerequisite of his reception.

"But the children grow and God does not withhold His grace on account of your indifference, and some stronger finds his the happiness of leading your godchild to his personal voluntary pledge in confirmation of his citizenship in the kingdom of Christ.

"And now perhaps comes your boy or your girl. Oh, they have wonderful visions. They know what a high standard of soul stands for. Don't be deceived. They know, and they know, too, the strong undertow of life; never did boys and girls know so well. They come for a renewal of the baptismal pledge, to be Christ's man or Christ's woman. They kneel for an inflow of Christ's spirit. Christ's life and Christ's power, and these things are theirs; they are of the kingdom."

Distribution Plans Of Radio Awaited

Companies May Announce Procedure Under Order at Once.

New York, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Early decisions are expected on the plans of the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. for distributing their holdings of Radio Corporation stock.

The General Electric Co.'s directors are scheduled to meet next Friday and the Westinghouse directors next Wednesday. There was a widespread belief in Wall Street that final decisions might be made at these meetings.

Under court order the two companies are obliged to distribute one-half of their total holdings of radio stock within three months. Three years have been allowed the companies to dispose of the other half. Assuming that General Electric directors should vote to declare a distribution of one-half of their holdings immediately, Wall street figured stockholders would receive nine shares of Radio common for every 100 shares of General Electric stock they hold. Such a distribution would be equivalent to $52.87 for the holder of each 100 shares of General Electric or, roughly, 53 cents a share. This valuation was computed on the basis of today's market price for Radio Corporation stock at the close. General Electric holds 5,188,755 shares of Radio common.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT will address a Nation-wide radio audience tonight (WRC, WJSV—10:30 p. m.). The occasion for Mrs. Roosevelt's talk is the annual drive for sale of Christmas seals by the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association.

HOWARD BARLOW is doing an exceptionally good job in reading the classics each night at 11 o'clock over WJSV. The three other local stations have dance programs at that hour, so there is doubtless something on the air to suit the musical taste of every listener at this particular time of the night.

When WMAL was on a Columbia split-network, Washington was frequently deprived of the pleasure of hearing Barlow's splendid orchestra but with Columbia operating its own station here we receive the full program. It is of such exceptional merit that it is well worth staying up to listen to.

Hearing Howard Barlow play the "Death of Asa" from "Peer Gynt" so beautifully reminded me of the time I first heard this selection. It was at the funeral of Mark Twain, to which I had been sent as a reporter on the old New York Sun. It was held, I believe, in the Fifth Avenue Brick Presbyterian Church.

From where I sat in the balcony I could see Mark Twain in his casket—looking as natural in death as in life with his white hair and clothed in a white flannel suit. He wore white flannels all the year. It brought back a memorable day on which I had interviewed him a year or so before.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton, broke down when delivering the eulogy. Then the organist played "The Death of Asa." It made an impression on me that I shall never forget.

TONIGHT Howard Barlow's Orchestra will play the first movement—Andante—from Schubert's Symphony in C major. This work will be presented throughout the week in serial form. The program will also include a request selection, the waltzes from "Der Rosenkavalier," of Richard Strauss; the overture to Rossini's opera, "Italians in Algiers," and the animated movement, Vivacissimo, from "Scenes From an Imaginary Ballet" of Coleridge-Taylor

SENATOR PAT HARRISON, of Mississippi, will discuss the foreign debt problem of the United States during the national radio forum (WRC, 10:30 p. m.).

Senator Harrison, ranking Democratic member of the Senate finance committee, which has charge in the Senate of all debt legislation, will become chairman of the committee when the Democrats assume control of both houses of Congress next year.

Sylvia Sapira, pianist, will continue her performance of Bach's "Well-Tempered Clavichord," playing the Preludes and Fuges in C sharp minor, D major, and D minor (WJSV, 2:15 p. m.).

THE Five Star Theater, a new series of radio shows, will make its debut on the WJZ network tonight and will continue thereafter on a five nights a week schedule for thirteen weeks. The five programs will be divided between the WJZ network and the Columbia chain.

Groucho and Chico Marx, members of the Marx Brothers, will be featured in the Monday night comedy sketches, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Each Monday they will present an episode in the exploits of "Beagle, Shyster & Beagle, Attorneys at Law."

Moliere's "Tartuffe," the satire on religious hypocrites of the time of Louis XIV, will be produced by the Radio Guild this afternoon (WRC, 4 o'clock). Harry Neville will play the part of Tartuffe, and Florence Malone the part of Elmire, his wife. Charles Webster has the role of Orgon. Others in the cast are Helen Lowell, Clarence Derwent, Wright Cramer, Sheila Hayes and Helen Claire.

MRS. MARSHALL FIELD will be heard in a fifteen-minute talk over WJSV in behalf of the Tuberculosis Association a week from today.

The New World and the Holy Land will be linked in a special Christmas Eve broadcast. The broadcast will be short-waved from Bethlehem and rebroadcast throughout America. The National Broadcasting Co. has received permission from the Order of St. Francis in Jerusalem for the broadcast, which will be a special Christmas Eve service from the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem.

Last Christmas Bethlehem was linked to America by wire when a telegraph key pressed in the Holy City completed an elcetric circuit which started the chimes of Trinity Church, New York. The Christmas Eve program will be the first actual radio hookup.

KING GEORGE will deliver a message direct to the British Empire by radio on the afternoon of Christmas Day. He will speak from Sandringham, where he and the queen will spend Christmas. The speech, which will take the form of a Christmas message, will be broadcast by all the stations of the BBC and also by the New Empire broadcasting station. It is quite likely that short waves will be used to distribute the broadcast to English-speaking people in all parts of the world, including the United States.

Speaking of Christmas, here is a paragraph of interest to the children. Santa Claus will have a party from the studios of Station WMAL every night, from Mondays to Fridays, beginning next Saturday, December 3.

"THE Mikado" will be presented during the National Light Opera broadcast (WJZ network), 11:15 p. m.

Paul Specht returns to the air after a long illness tonight (WJSV, 7:30 o'clock). Specht and his orchestra will be a regular feature of the Tydol program which is broadcast at the above time every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Allan Prior, young Australian concert and light opera tenor, will be the guest soloist during the broadcast of Jack Frost Melody Moments with Josef Pasternack's Concert Orchestra (WJZ-WBAL-WLW, 9:30 o'clock) tonight.

Martha, Connie and Vet Boswell will open with the old minstrel favorite, "Darktown Strutters' Ball," to be followed by "I'll Never Have to Dream Again" and "Smile for Me," during the broadcast of "Music That Satisfies" (WJSV, 10 o'clock) tonight.

GLADYS RICE is the daughter of John Rice and Salley Cohen, vaudeville veterans. Gladys was sent away to boarding school, and in one of her early geography lessons the teacher asked her where a certain town was located. Gladys answered, "I don't know how far it is, but I know it's a Sunday run from Des Moines."

2 Fleets of Grain Boats Sail East From Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Nearly 4,000,000 bushels of grain have been started eastward from the barge canal terminal here in the last two weeks. Two fleets ready to sail today will close the season for eastbound navigation from Buffalo.

Canal brokers here said the heavy grain shipments of the last fortnight ran the grain tonnage close to last year's record. Other tonnage, however, has been low all season, the brokers said.

Culbertson on Bridge

MASTERS OF BRIDGE.

OCCASIONALLY a hand turns up at the Bridge table that even the greatest expert finds impossible of solution in actual play, and difficult even at what is known as Double Dummy—that is, with all the cards exposed.

A brilliant player, Mr. N. M. Nielsen, of Oslo, Norway, recently sent me the hand below, which he played in an actual game, and found the method of making his Small Slam contract. The finer points of play displayed by Mr. Nielsen were the correct drawing of inferences as to West's holding from his bidding and play of the tricks up to number 5, and the play of the Ace of trumps at Trick 2, in addition to the play of the diamond suit. The student will note that the play of the spade Queen at Trick 2, instead of the Ace, would have resulted in defeat rather than victory.

South—Dealer.

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	2◇	2NT	Pass
3♣	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♣	Pass	4♠	Pass
6♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

The Slam contract should, no doubt, be reached, as North and South have not only many honor-tricks, but reasonably favorable distribution.

West's choice of an Opening lead was not easy, but he correctly chose the lesser of evils with the lead of a trump. A small trump was played from the Dummy, East played the 6, and South won with the Knave. In order to test out the trump distribution at once, the Ace of trumps was laid down at Trick 2, and West already was forced to find a discard. He chose the diamond 2. Mr. Nielsen then led the diamond 6, and West quite correctly refused to play the Ace. The trick was won with Dummy's Queen, and the diamond King returned. Mr. Nielsen did not ruff, however, but instead discarded the club 5. West won with the Ace, but was again in difficulties as to the choice of a card to lead. Weighing everything, he determined to return the diamond Knave. West's play at this point gave Mr. Nielsen the Key to the future play of the hand.

Obviously, he would not lead a diamond, and thereby establish a good diamond in Dummy, if he could safely lead either a heart or club. Therefore, he must hold the heart King and the club Queen. Now South laid down the heart Ace, and followed with the spade Queen, on which West discarded the diamond 5. This trick was won with the King in Dummy. This was another beautiful play. The diamond 10 was now led, and the Declarer discarded his losing heart. West, however, was ground between the upper and the nether millstone. If he discarded a club, South's play was easy, as he would lead two rounds of clubs, ruff the third and establish the fourth for the Slam trick. If he discarded a heart, then one of Dummy's hearts would be led, ruffed in the closed hand, and the success of the contract assured.

A very spectacular and interesting hand, indeed, and if it is a sample of Bridge as played in Norway, Mr. Nielsen and his countrymen are to be congratulated.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

WELL, winter is here. Many women don't need the cold, nippy weather and the biting winds to tell them that. Their skins are beginning to feel dry and drawn. That's one sign of Jack Frost's activity.

The majority of skins are inclined to be dry during the cold weather. The very oily type usually becomes normalized. The average skin seems somewhat dry. And the ordinarily dry type becomes quite parched. Often it is so sensitive that even the mildest soap cleansing seems to irritate it.

Most women use soap at some time or other for facial cleansing. And soap is fine for the purpose, particularly if careful experimentation has finally selected a soap to which the skin responds favorably.

However, for the very sensitive type of skin that seems slightly irritated after soap and water, it is best to change to cream for cleansing purposes. The liquefying type of cleansing cream is good and the beauty mart also offers a heavier type of cream for cleansing the fragile type of skin. This is known as a special cleansing cream, or a cleansing-massage cream, though it is intended for cleansing more than for massage.

Now, a word to those women who feel they simply must wash face and neck with soap and water. A great many women say, "But I don't feel clean unless I wash with soap and water." The following cleansing method offers a satisfactory compromise: First, cleanse face and neck with the cream. Remove with tissues. Go over the skin a second time with cream and this time allow the cream to remain for several minutes, while you take your bath perhaps, or collect your clothes, &c. Then remove once more with tissues and follow with a soap and water cleansing. The cream will have softened the skin and made it a little more receptive to the soap and water and irritation is less likely to follow. Should you wish to use the soap and water exclusively, the best time to do that is at night, before retiring. Then follow this ablution with a light film of nourishing cream and leave this on as long as possible, preferably overnight.

Try to avoid using soap and water immediately before and immediately after going outdoors. Otherwise, exposure will only add to the skin's sensitiveness. If soap and water is preferred, plan an interval of an hour or two before and after outdoor exposure.

For the highly sensitive, delicate skin, less water without and more within is an excellent beauty maxim.

Tomorrow, more tips on caring for the dry skin.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 28 is the date of your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 11:15 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 5:30 p. m. to 7 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to 12 midnight. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

November 28 astrological influences will have a tendency to stimulate anxiety. Most probably the anxiety will concern some person very dear to you or else will be over some very personal matter. Your anxiety may or may not be well founded, but you need not be alarmed over the final outcome, for in all probability it will work out to the best advantage of all concerned. Guard yourself against strangers.

The child born on this November 28 should bring a great deal of happiness into the lives of his parents. The child will have a happy disposition, a facile mind that grasps facts quickly and retains them, and the ability to mingle with all kinds of people and get along comfortably with them. You may expect great results from this teachable child.

If November 28 is the date of your birth, you most probably are a real go-getter and pusher in business. If you are not a salesman you may well consider such an occupation, for you have all the qualities that eminently fit you for such a career. You make a good first impression. You converse easily with all whom you meet and you have a ready wit. At the same time you have the ability to anticipate the other person's thoughts so that you are able to meet any of his possible arguments even before they are completely framed in his own mind. Your talents would almost assure your success in some phase of promotional work.

You will probably not make a great deal of money in the course of your life. This is not because you have not the ability, but because you will not work as hard as would be required.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A delightful ensemble has a dress of flat crepe with indistinct dots in the fabric, which suggest the leopard skin trimming of the accompanying coat! The coat collar is interesting in the way it drapes and is held in place by two buttons. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

BLUE Monday!

The inevitable depression and subconscious unwillingness to resume the burden of the week's work after the freedom of Sunday.

Isn't Monday just the hardest day?

What about your color psychology?

Yes, I'm tired of that long word myself, but the facts remain—only no one has been able to give them a better classification!

So I must continue to talk about the psychology of color.

Is it blue or foggy today where you are, perhaps raining? Or is the sun shining gloriously?

It certainly is blue inside, though, isn't it?

Whatever it is outside, the inside is what counts. So today of all days, wear your bright colors!

Haven't you one particular dress that makes you happy when you wear it? Wear it today, if it is at all appropriate to your work. Or get a pretty bunch of your favorite flowers. Color, color, color! Marvelous thing, color. Color is just a vibration, you know. So surround yourself with a vibration that will offset the inevitable Monday depression.

If you get the right color, I'll promise you that by noon you will be as happy as a lark, and, consequently, the energy you did store up over the week-end will have unrestricted away and you will get twice as much done as you will any other day in the week.

Liberate the energy, offset the subconscious depression, be a better woman today, all through the psychology of color!

Leopard is one of the novelties of the season, and as I have already told you, it matters very little whether it be the hide of a leopard or the product of the loom, in chic. The coat of dark green wool that Bernard et Cie so cleverly trimmed with leopard, however, boasts the hide of the animule—then the accompanying dress suggests leopard in the weave of the fabric, nothing else. The coat collar drapes, with studied nonchalance—and then before it has half a chance to change its mind—or rather its drape, it is buttoned onto two big buttons! Nice?

'Course the oilcloth animules have first place—we have already told you how to make the turtle, now there is a fee-rocious alligator and a comical purp in this new leaflet, with exact directions for making 'em. And some other things dear to kiddies' hearts, too, with their directions for making. Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet, and start in making lots and lots of kiddies' toys for your own or any other kiddies.

The Beauty Sorceress.

And he says, being a fammus doctor and all that—that powdered sulphur and ug, ug, lard, no less—rubbed into your scalp the night before a shampoo—is the best thing one could possibly do for one's scalp and hair!

The funny part of it is that it does do away with dandruf in only two or three applications, and leaves the hair glossy and lovely!

Au revoir.

Ship Lines Decide To Restore Rates

Former Passenger Fares Will Be Charged on Atlantic Steamers.

London, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Steamship lines represented in the Atlantic conference have decided partially to restore the passenger rates which were effective before heavy rductions were made early this year. The decision was regarded as a victory for the French Line and the Canadian Pacific, which have withdrawn threats to leave the conference on this issue.

The increase will be approximately 6 per cent in the first and second cabin classes. The tourist increase will be $5.50, and third class, $5.00 westbound, $7.50 eastbound. There also will be slight increases in the luxury accommodations.

The four-week summer season also will be reinstated and during that period first cabin and tourist rates will go up 5 per cent. The present reductions for round trips will be maintained. These changes will take effect December 5.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TIC DOULOUREUX.

NEURALGIA of the face is one of the most persistent and annoying disorders to which the human animal is subjected. It does not destroy life and, therefore vital statistics tell us nothing about it. Nevertheless, it is productive of incapacity and waste, for not only does the sufferer spend his savings hoping for a cure but he can not add figures, keep books, or do any other work well if he is in misery with a pain in his face.

The milder forms of the disorder result from such diseases of the teeth as pyorrhea, unerupted teeth, and pulpstones, and from a variety of other disorders located above the Adam's apple.

Dr. Joseph Wasserman has an idea that true trifacial neuralgia, or tic douloureux, is another disorder. We quote some of his views of true tic:

The disease is not caused by syphilis, nor by any other constitutional disease, so far as is known. There is no relation between sinus disease and tic. The sinuses should be left alone and the sinuses left undrained. The pain is sharp, severe, stabbing, and paroxysmal; beginning in the same place, traveling in the same direction, and disappearing at the same point. Pain around the face that is steady and in the form of a continuous throb is not tic. To repeat, the pain of tic is in sharp, instantaneous paroxysms of excruciating type, starting suddenly and completely disappearing in a few seconds or a very few minutes.

It is one-sided and, at first, is without trigger zones. A trigger zone is an area in which we can start the paroxysm of pain by touching some spot or rubbing a surface.

The relief of the pain of tic can be accomplished in some instances, particularly if the disease is not long continued, by inhalation of trichlorethelene. Twenty to 25 drops of this drug are placed on a handkerchief, and this is held to the nose until the drug has disappeared. Since this inhalation may cause dizziness it is safer to lie down during the inhalation.

This chemical is used in cleaning automobile bodies and in dissolving chemicals and its capacity for relieving pain was accidentally discovered. In addition to the cruder form, in which it has always been marketed, there are two preparations of it bearing trade names now available. It is capable of curing, as well as relieving, about one-sixth the cases. In cases relieved by it a few inhalations a year have some ability to prevent subsequent attacks.

Those cases that do not get relief from the inhalation of this drug may need to be operated on. One operation consists in injecting alcohol into the ganglion. This generally gives relief for six to twelve months, after which it may be advisable to repeat the injection. Another operation is for the purpose of removing the ganglion. It is more severe, but its results are expected to be permanent.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHILE Washington is all agog—and its present state of ga-ga interest may even amount to a couple of gogs, if carefully measured—over the return to the incinerating cinema of Clara Bow, the erstwhile Brooklyn bonfire, Flatbush conflagration, or what sort of heat have you? in "Call Her Savage," it seems opportune to reproduce here a brief appraisal of the star and her vehicle that reaches this desk still redolent of California's special, double-distilled, Grade A, sunshine — or something.

CLARA BOW.

"Clara Bow's first picture in a long time has been received with argument in Hollywood, which had been eager to glimpse it.

"It is 'Call Her Savage,' taken from Tiffany Thayer's novel. 'Taken From' is used advisedly. If you've read Thayer's story you'll understand that much of it had to be tossed overboard.

"Clara looks well and is very stunningly gowned. I believe her role is the first wholly emotional characterization she ever has had. While at times she is as hoydenish as of old, in this picture there is an excuse and an explanation for her madness.

"Thayer's story depicted and explained the quirks in the mind of a primitive type of woman. The picture misses this point in its effort to prove that the sins of the fathers shall be visited upon future generations."

Outside of the facts that Miss Bow's role is not wholly emotional, and the picture does not conceal the quirks in the mind of a primitive type of woman, this seems to be a thoroughly accurate estimate!

Whatever the critical rating of the picture may be, it remains a bit of box-office dynamite that is apt to blow up previous house records anywhere, any minute it is on view. Friday's opening-day business at Loew's Fox missed the house attendance and money records by a bare margin of a few dollars, having been exceeded only by the first day's returns of "Daddy Long-Legs." As this paragraph was being written Saturday afternoon, Saturday's business was running ahead of Friday's, which means continuous lobby lockouts from opening to closing, and occasional periods when the crowds became so great that it was necessary to stop selling tickets for sometimes as much as 35 minutes at a stretch.

This was not a condition peculiar alone to the Fox over the week-end. The Earle, with one of its handsomest combinations of screen and stage offerings, recorded the same sort of public response, difference in figures being attributable entirely to the difference in house capacities.

It is a unique parade of movie talent that marches by in "I Had a Million," the picture suddenly substituted for "Walking Down Broadway," for Loew's Fox next week. Nineteen writers, seven directors and countless players, including Gary Cooper, George Raft, Wynne Gibson, W. C. Fields, Richard Bennett, Allson Skipworth, Jack Oakie, Charles Ruggles, Fredric March and Sylvia Sidney, contributed to the making of this episodic, yet reasonably coherent, recital of what happens when an eccentric old multimillionaire plays a prank on humanity.

All these people, implicated in what is described as one of the most unusual and diverting productions of recent seasons, took their idea from a book by Robert D. Andrews, known to the Middle West as the Bob Andrews whose name has shed some luster upon such thriving communities as Sioux Falls and Minneapolis. Andrews based his story on the results of a newspaper contest in which the question, "What would you do with $1,000,000?" had to be answered.

In the film, Richard Bennett leaves his entire fortune of $8,000,000 to eight different people whose names are chosen at random from the city directory—or was it the telephone book? You see what happens to each of the eight, each story being handled by a separate crew of writers, directors and actors.

So what? So there you are.

It is perhaps just as well, from the purely selfish viewpoint of the drama reviewer, that the National Theater is dark this week. With the coming of the Abbey Theater Players from Dublin next week, the professional theatergoers of the Capital will find themselves confronted with an almost daily change of bill. Not until toward the end of the week do repetitions begin to crop up in the projected repertoire of short and full-length plays announced for the single week's visit of this distinguished, but unpretentious, group of artists. The mitigating circumstance is that the Irish Players' productions are such admirable examples of thespic art that it is only with keenest regret that one misses any of them.

It is pleasant to be able to note that since they afford so much rare enjoyment to others, provision for the entertainment of the Irish Players during their leisure hours has not been entirely ignored. For instance, Capt. Taylor Branson, director of the United States Marine Band, has invited the Abbey Players to be his guests at the Marine Barracks Auditorium a week from this afternoon, Monday, December 5, when he will give an all-Irish program in their honor.

Those who attended Loew's Fox Theater over the supper hour last evening were treated to a little extra filip, added extemporaneously to the regular program.

In acknowledging the plaudits that thundered across the footlights at the conclusion of his act—in which he is so efficiently aided by his daughter and son, Dorothy and Dick—Bob Murphy stepped to the footlights and recalled the old days at B. F. Keith's, when a distinguished American attended each weekly bill. He referred, of course, to the late Woodrow Wilson, wartime President of the United States, and an avowed devotee of vaudeville. Continuing in the same vein, he remarked casually that he was happy to see down front in the Sunday evening audience another distinguished American, the Hon. John Nance Garner, Vice President-elect of the United States, who——

But that was as far as he was able to get. They tell me that what happened for the next five or ten minutes—what with the standees breaking all restraint and dashing down front, and those who could see him leaping to their feet and cheering—looked and sounded like a well-organized rooting section at a pre-election political rally.

Mr. Garner could do no less than rise in his pew and wave his hand in response to the ovation.

After all the tears that were shed in the drama section of the Sunday Post over the passing of the Palace Theater, in New York, as a temple of the two-a-day, what comes along but the suggestion that its surrender to pictures is only temporary and that within the next few weeks it will revert to its former status as the "mother house" of vaudeville, with two performances a day and only a newsreel to represent the films on each weekly program! It is the intention to call the house B. F. Keith's Palace Theater, according to report, with J. J. Murdock, the Chicago mogul, and Pat Casey personally attending to the resuscitation.

It may be worthy of passing mention that the Theater Guild dramatization of Mrs. Pearl S. Buck's "The Good Earth," seen at the National earlier in the season, instead of terminating its New York run with the expiration of the subscription period, is being continued briefly at the Guild Theater.

Speaking of the good earth, it wouldn't surprise me to learn that there had been frost in low places these last couple of nights!

Among the screen offerings arriving in town next Friday will be "Rock-a-Bye" at RKO-Keith's. This is an artist's view of one of the scenes in the picture, enacted, as you can plainly see, by that trig blonde, Constance Bennett, and that stalwart leading man, Joel McCrea.

"SOUTHERN FRANCE AND JOYS OF THE NEW RIVIERA." Third of a series of five illustrated travelogues presented Sunday afternoons by Burton Holmes. Motion pictures by Andre La Varre; slides by Van Altena, colored by Grace Nichols. Projection by E. Jesse Greene. Reviewed by M. A. McKavitt.

What deep interest there is in the long ago and far away! On the other hand, the far away and very now are just as intriguing, because Burton Holmes yesterday not only told us about and showed us by motion pictures and artistically finished slides the fascinating remains of a Roman-conquered Gaul, but he conducted us through picturesque southern France as well, displaying the charms of the present roads and countryside of La Belle France and the glorious coastline of the Riviera, where the idle and bored rich desperately seek amusement.

This presentation, as usual, is in two parts and it must be said that the Roman ruins of the past, in Part One, were of far greater interest than the expansive exhibit of bare-backs of the pajama-clad ladies at the fashionable resorts along the coast which were featured in the new Riviera sequences of Part Two. This revolution in the mode of dress astonished Mr. Holmes, who had been used to the more sedately garbed devotees of a Victorian yesterday, and that, no doubt, accounts for the parade.

Beginning the travelogue with engaging scenes of people at play on the deck of the ocean liner, the lecturer subsequently showed us intimate glimpses of the second largest city in France, Marseilles. Of especial interest here was the famous church perched high above the city—Notre Dame de la Garde—the favorite place of prayer of the sailors. We had beautiful views of the Chateau d'If, the prison of the Count of Monte Cristo; Martigues—the Venice of southern France; Nimes, with its notable relics of an illustrious Roman past.

Such ancient wonders as the famous Roman bridge, the seaport of the Crusaders, another Colosseum that rivals the one in Rome, the architecture at Avignon, the odd and awesome ruins of Les Baux were particularly edifying and well chosen.

Mr. Holmes enriched our knowledge of Napoleonic history when he took us to Corsica, its chief city, Bestia; the birthplace of the emperor and the home of his parents; the tomb of his mother—the "Mother of Kings"—and several monuments honoring Napoleon. Considerable time was given to the projection of sights in the various seaside amusement places. Many of these playing grounds were entirely new to the traveler, who seemed to get considerable fun "shooting" unsuspecting beach-lolling subjects in various poses.

A very interesting feature of the afternoon was the occasional showing of slides taken 27 years ago of the lecturer when he took a bicycle jaunt through many places shown Sunday afternoon. We saw famous faces along the way, namely those of Irene Bordoni, Sir James Matthew Barrie, the playwright, and the very French Kiki.

It was reluctantly that the audience left the National after so nice a blending of the old and the new in southern France.

ARMY'S ROUT BOLSTERS HOPES OF NAVY GRIDMEN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

WITH enough gold braid on the premises to cause the Congressional appropriation committee to take another reef in naval and military budgets, Army and Navy will trot out on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, on Saturday for the thirtieth renewal of their football extravaganza.

The name of sweet charity is missing this season as the sponsor of the game which is being played this year for the benefit of the Army and Navy Athletic Association exchequers which will split a gate of approximately $300,000 contribution by the 78,300 who have insured a sell-out at Franklin Field at $4.40 per throw.

The two service academies patched up their differences during the last summer after a rift at the end of the 1927 season, which resulted in omitting the 1928 and 1929 games. For the past two seasons they have been bludgeoned into playing for the benefit of the unemployed and, with the probability that the same demands would be made this year, there was nothing to be lost in staging the game under their own auspices and to be gained was the $300,000 gate for their athletic treasuries.

Game Now Promises To Be Battle.

With football attendances what they are this season, there had been grave doubt that even the spectacle of an Army-Navy game with all its gold braid would be a sell-out, but two late-season developments have injected a new interest into the combat—the prospect that it will be a bitter and more or less even battle.

The fighting Croats, Slavs, Liths and Scandinavians of Notre Dame have made the Army-Navy game of 1932 an attraction by the simple expedient of boosting Navy prestige by winning only 12-0 and whittling down the Army to the size of a 21-0 defeat, thereby stripping the battle next Saturday of the prospect that it would be a track meet for West Point.

So the Army and Navy will take the field not with Army an overwhelming favorite, but with Navy conceded a splendid chance to win, which is all that is required to capture the imagination of the Naval element which has been waiting for six years to see an Annapolis team beat the West Pointers.

Navy Has Shown Rapid Improvement.

While this department has learned that comparative scores are about as dependable as an .029 hitter, the respective showings of Army and Navy against Notre Dame do have their significance. A Navy team that held Notre Dame to two touchdowns certainly does not figure to yield too readily to an Army team that permitted the Irish to score thrice.

Navy has come along rapidly under Rip Miller during the last month of the season and its last four tests are enlightening compared to the first three games of the season, which saw the Midshipmen lose to William and Mary and Ohio University. Since then, Navy has come along to hold Penn to 14 to 0, tie Princeton at 0 to 0, bow to Columbia only 7 to 6, and startle even its admirers by losing only 12 to 0 to Notre Dame two weeks ago.

Army Shows No Liking for Notre Dame System.

West Point showed no liking for the Notre Dame system last Saturday when the Irish kept the Cadets on the defense for 80 per cent of the time with a dazzling attack, and it probably is no balm to Army coaches to realize that Navy is also an exponent of the Notre Dame system.

Army may have its Vidal and its Fields, but this department doubts that the West Pointers have a single man as capable in the back field as Gordon Chung-Hoon, the sloe-eyed Hawaiian who kicks, runs and passes with equal facility and effectiveness, which, in the vernacular, is puh-lenty.

That Navy line that held Notre Dame a half dozen times within the 15-yard line does not figure to be outplayed on the defense by Army, either, and, when the whistle blows at 1 p. m. on Saturday, it may be even money and take your choice.

Fraters Hold Mohawks to 0-0 Tie

Alexandria Gridmen Threaten to Score Five Times.

Fumble Ends Drive of Indians; Good Punting Recorded.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

A DETERMINED little band of youngsters from Alexandria, still serving their apprenticeship on the gridiron, piled into the Mohawks yesterday at Griffith Stadium and almost won the ball game, but in the end were obliged to content themselves with a scoreless tie, or one of those moral victories.

No less than five times did the Fraters get within striking distance of the Indian goal line. One of these drives was repulsed by the stout Mohawk line when the Virginians needed but 3 inches for a first down and 6 inches for a touchdown in the third period.

Two good punters, McMenamin and Goodwin, and a potent forward-passing attack that completely baffled the opposition almost bludgeoned the Hawks into submission.

Agner Recovers Fumble.

The first serious advance on the local goal line was made in the initial period after Bobby Agner, Frater end, scooped up a fumble on the Mohawk 26-yard line. The Fraters reached the 16-yard stripe before Gensmer fumbled and Deckman retrieved the ball for the Hawks.

Numerous first downs were made by the Indians, but their offense seemed to function only in midfield. Frequent fumbles marred the attack once the team stepped over into Frater territory.

A fumble ingloriously ended the only real Mohawk scoring threat, made soon after the start of the second half. The red-helmeted crew reached the 25-yard line when Barry reeled off a pair of first downs around the ends, but the ball bobbed out of Lee Hensley's arms on the 18-yard mark, where "Coopy" Goodwin fell on it for the Fraters.

Alexandria stock slumped perceptibly in the last period, when Les McMenamin and Bill Padgett were injured. But the recruits flung into the gap upheld their end of the burden until the final whistle came echoing across the field.

Fraters Barely Miss Touchdown.

The Yellow Jackets narrowly missed scoring a touchdown in the second period after penetrating to the Indians' 3-yard mark. Here further advance was thwarted by the fighting Hawk forwards and McMenamin dropped back and hurled a pass into the end zone, where the ball lingered for a moment on Ellet Cabell's fingertips and then dropped to the ground.

It was not long after that the visitors slipped into Mohawk territory, after Baylis recovered a fumble, only to encounter a stone wall on the 4-yard line and subsequently a pass into the end zone, where the ball was grounded.

Baylis, a ferocious-looking center, was obliged to play with a heavy

Notre Dame Regains Place In National Grid Standings

Irish Must Be Considered or 80,000 Who Saw Stunning Rout of Army Will Squawk Loudly.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Count the "Irish" of Notre Dame among the contenders for mythical national football honors or 80,000 persons will squawk "there ain't no justice."

Routing the Army's powerful forces, 21 to 0, in a stunning upset in the Yankee Stadium yesterday, the most severely criticized team in Rambler history, with one grand demonstration of efficient football, has recovered all its lost prestige and taken rank, once more, with the Nation's greatest gridiron machines.

Beaten by Pittsburgh, 12-0, and unimpressive in later victories over Kansas, Northwestern and Navy, the Ramblers entered the battle on the short end of the betting, but a capacity crowd of 80,000 saw the "Irish" aces—Melinkovich, Koken, Banas, Kurth, Krause et al.—Rip the Cadet defense to pieces and score an even more decisive victory than the one-sided score would indicate.

While this startling piece of football drama was being enacted at New York, the Pitt Panthers, conquerors of both Army and Notre Dame, completed an undefeated season with a 7-0 conquest of "Pop" Warner's Stanford Indians; Texas Christian was clinching the Southwest Conference title by defeating Southern Methodist, 8-0, and Louisiana State was beating back a crippled Tulane outfit, 14-0, to finish its Southern Conference season undefeated and untied.

Army Unable to Dent Irish.

It was the very one-sidedness of the struggle at the Yankee Stadium that furnished most of the drama. Here was one of the greatest elevens in Army history, an outfit which had scored 66 points against Yale and Harvard and been scored on only by Pitt's mighty team, unable to make a dent in a Notre Dame defense in which the giant tackles, Kurth and Krause, were bulwarks.

Army failed to make a single real threat all afternoon, although Felix ("Pick") Vidal did manage to break away for one spectacular 36-yard sprint to Notre Dame's 40-yard line. But that was as close as Army ever got to the Rambler goal. All afternoon long, the Notre Dame forwards were piling up plays at the scrimmage line, breaking through to nab the ball carrier before he could get under way, or batting down Army's desperate passes.

On the offense, the Ramblers plowed through for huge gains as their forwards opened big holes in the Cadets' hitherto powerful line. The backs gained 291 yards from scrimmage and made fifteen first downs compared with Army's 66 yards and five first downs.

Cadets Make Game Stands.

Notre Dame's touchdowns came on two passes and a recovered fumble, Melinkovich and Hugh Devore taking passes in the end zone, and Jim Harris, lineman, recovering a fumble by Ken Fields across the Army goal line. Only Army's several gallant goal-line stands, and a couple of muffed passes kept the score from mounting to close to the 50 mark.

It was a magnificent display of football by Notre Dame and foreshadowed trouble for Southern California when the Ramblers and Trojans get together at Los Angeles December 10.

Pittsburgh, hoping for a bid to play in the Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena, January 2, outplayed Sanford by a tremendous margin, although the

Johnson to Stay in Game, Weighs Offer in Minors

BASEBALL is not going to lose Walter Johnson yet a while.

The blue-eyed giant who was let out at the end of last season by the Washington Nationals after twenty years as their great fireball pitcher and four as their manager expects to be back in the game this coming season, although probably not in the big leagues.

Good-natured as ever, the "Big Train" of baseball history sprawled at ease in his roomy old farmhouse near Bethesda, Md., and talked over his own past, present and future, as well as that of the game, with Ted Vosburgh, Associated Press writer.

He shied only at naming for publication the clubs that are seeking his services. It can be said, however, that Johnson has several offers, including a promising minor league managerial proposition, and a definite announcement may be forthcoming before the hot stove league season is many weeks old.

"I had a letter from a friend of mine the other day asking me why I don't get away from baseball, with its worries, and settle down on a quiet farm," remarked Walter with his slow smile.

"I told him I'd be pleased to settle down on a farm, but when you've got six or eight children to feed and put through school it costs money. So I'd probably continue in baseball for a while."

Johnson has a house full of youngsters—his own motherless brood and the children of a sister who died a few years ago.

Partly to give them lots of room to run and develop and partly to satisfy his own inborn love for the farm, he took over, some seven years ago, the old farmhouse on an eight and a half acre tract.

There he raises prize-winning chick-

Little Known Pro Leads At Miami

Hancock and Watrous Tie for 2d; Aces Well Back.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Nov. 27 (A. P.).—Jack Cattell, 23-year-old Jacksonville, Fla., professional, stole a march in windy, rainy weather today and scored a 34—35—69, one short of a course record, to lead the first-day field of 120 entrants in the 72-hole $10,000 Miami Biltmore open golf tournament.

Cattell, a professional for only three years, was even par on the outbound nine holes, and two under coming back, as the vaunted high lights of golfdom trailed in the rear.

Two strokes behind the Jacksonville pro and tying par were Roland Hancock, Stoneham, Mass., another comparative youngster in the golfing business, and Al Watrous, of Detroit, with 71's.

Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, had a 72.

Al Houghton, Maryland open champion, led the three Washington golfers with a 78. After shooting a fine 36 on the first nine, the Kenwood professional used up 42 strokes on the last nine. Mel Shorey, of East Potomac Park, finished with 42—39—81, while Roland Mackenzie, of Columbia Country Club, former Walker Cup star, who recently announced his intentions of abadoning the simon-pure ranks, turned in a 44 on the first nine, but rallied to score an 80

Sarazen Well Behind Leaders.

Gene Sarazen, defending champion and United States and British open champion, was well behind the leaders with a 77, unable to withstand the onslaught of wind and weather. Walter Hagen, former United States and British open champion, took a 75 over the well-trapped Miami Biltmore course, as did Johnny Farrell and a group of other professionals.

Curtis Bryan, of Lakeland, Fla., was low amateur, with a 77 that tied the first-day score of Sarazen. Ralph Redmond, of St. Petersburg, Fla., did not defend the amateur honors he won in the March, 1932, Miami Biltmore open.

Cattell, playing his first major tournament, got away to a bad start, but redeemed himself with consistent playing that counted five birdies before the day's eighteen holes were completed.

Cattell won the first money prize of the tournament, $25 for low score for the first eighteen holes.

Vardon's Shot Over House Is Called Most Remarkable

J. Monro Hunter, in the second of The Post's series of instructive golf articles, illustrates his driving grip in the above photograph.

Hunter says: "I hold the club with the shaft across the fingers of both hands. The left hand is far enough over the shaft so that the 'V' formed by the first finger and thumb points to the right shoulder. The right hand is far enough on top of the shaft so that the upper joint of the index finger points toward the ground. The main grip on the club should be in the last three fingers of the left hand. This grip is used by 90 per cent of the ranking golfers."

Monro Hunter Tells of British Star's Clever Niblick.

By J. MONRO HUNTER
(Army-Navy Club Pro.)
As told to Dave Herman, Post Staff Golf Writer.

I HAVE witnessed so many remarkable shots in my golf experience that I find it rather hard to single out any particular one. There are, however, two notable shots that at this particular moment stand out in my mind, both of them played by the famous British professional, Harry Vardon.

One of them happened on the last hole of the final round of the "News of the World" championship about 30 years ago on one of England's courses.

Vardon's second shot on the hole, which was a par 5, was sliced behind the clubhouse, a two-story building. His ball lay 10 feet from the wall of the building, which was directly between his ball and the hole.

6,000 Witness The Shot.

Upward of 6,000 persons were on hand. All thought he would have to play out from behind the clubhouse, and then trust to laying his next shot dead to the hole for a par 5, which he needed to win the championship.

Then came the shot. To the surprise of the gallery, he cleared a dozen fans from the veranda that overhung the house and then played the ball straight over the clubhouse to within 6 feet of the pin. Employing a niblick, he hit the ball in such a way that the spin of it was reversed—a spin that made the sphere rise abruptly to a point at which the axis of the spin changed to such an extent that the ball took a forward movement. The flight of the ball was approximately 60 yards, and upon seeing it descend a few feet from the cup, the crowd roared its approval at his daring and masterful skill.

Vardon won the title sponsored by the British newspaper by one stroke, beating out Britain's most famous stars of the day.

It was only one of a number of great shots that Vardon was capable of making when in critical spots.

Notre Dame System and Army Play Is Seen by Team.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 27.—Deeply impressed by the spectacular football game waged in the Yankee Stadium Saturday, when Notre Dame rolled over the Army Cadets, Navy's varsity gridders and the staff of coaches, returned to Annapolis tonight, entertaining additional hope of their prospects against the soldier boys when they clash on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, on the coming Saturday.

The naval party bestowed high praise on the power of the Notre Dame line and the precision of its running attack, and, while Army was crushed, yet it is felt that the Cadets will give a display of power that enabled them to trample Yale and Harvard and make such an impressive showing against the Pittsburgh Panthers when they swing into action in Philadelphia.

Defense of Service Teams Tightens.

They maintain that Saturday's game was much on the same order as that which Navy waged against the Ramblers a little more than a week ago; that is, the running plays of the South Benders gained ground almost at will between the 20-yard lines, but the service teams showed magnificent resistance in the shadow of the goal posts. In the latter respect the Middies are conceded a shade the better of it over their military rivals.

But withal, Navy is inclined to concede Army something of an edge in the forthcoming battle, largely because of its group of more seasoned players. The Navy contingent also spoke glowingly of the work of "Pick" Vidal, ace of the Army ball carriers, but, except in one instance, he was kept so well covered by the Notre Dame players that he never had a chance. For that matter, Army's general attack never could get going.

Navy Profited by Seeing Game.

On the other hand, the naval men gleaned some fine points from the game that may redound to the benefit of their own cause. That is, they got a first-class slant of a highly perfected Notre Dame offense in action and the methods employed by Army to meet it. As is now generally known, this is the second season in which the Middies have been groomed in the Notre Dame system, and the local mentors will have some fine pointers to impart to their charges when the final week's drive for the Army fracas is launched tomorrow.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Army's football squad will finish training for the battle with Navy at the Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, near here, Col. Milton C. Baker, superintendent of that institution said tonight.

The West Pointers are expected to arrive there Thursday night, bringing their own drinking water. They will be quartered in Hamilton Hall during their stay, Col. Baker said, temporarily displacing 50 Valley Forge Cadets, who will be housed in the gymnasium.

Bruised Army Gridmen Return to Headquarters

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Army's tired football squad returned quietly from New York today, ready to start practice for the Navy game tomorrow.

There was no demonstration when the team arrived, but at supper tonight the 1,300 cadets assembled in the mess hall gave the players an ovation.

Six players, Kilday, Fields, Lincoln, Jablonsky, Vidal and Kopcsak, were slightly injured in the Notre Dame game, the last two suffering from contusions of the thigh.

A light drill is scheduled for tomorrow.

Women's Title Event At Chicago Golf Club

New York, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—Prescott S. Bush, secretary of the United States Golf Association, announced today the executive committee had approved the recommendation of the women's committee of the U. S. G. A. and awarded the 1933 women's championship to the Exmoor Country Club, Chicago.

The competition will start the week of August 28.

SCHWARTZ-BURL FIGHT TONIGHT IS CALLED "NATURAL"

Bantam Aces In Portner's Feature

Winner Gets Chance at Sanstol, Norwegian Champ.

Fullam-Burns Meet in Semiwindup of 24-Round Card.

BENNY SCHWARTZ and Eddie Burl, two youngsters who hope to improve their positions on the bantamweight ladder before the old year rings out, will inaugurate their ring feud tonight at Portner's Arena in an eight-round match to which much importance is attached.

Headlining a program that will offer 28 rounds, provided none of the ten participants feels the knockout blow, Schwartz and Burl are slated to stage one of the season's few "naturals." For some time, Matchmaker Frankie Mann has been gunning for this so-called "natural," and whether success is to crown his efforts will depend on the fight as it is unfolded round by round. The winner will meet Pete Sanstol, Norwegian bantamweight champion.

Burl in Best Shape Of Career.

Burl, as tough looking in his every day attire as in his thinly clad ring togs, yesterday completed his training at Frankie Mann's gymnasium. He tipped the beam at 120 pounds, and his supporters declared he was in the finest shape of his career. Schwartz finished his work Saturday in Baltimore with a snappy drill that saw him flash his customary speed and alertness. He will weigh-in around 119 pounds.

Reports floating around the District yesterday were to the effect that Burl expected to flatten his foe within five rounds. Schwartz will be handled tonight by Bill Bandy and Eddie Ross, the latter being famous for his training of Joe Dundee.

Fullam-Burns Bout Promising.

There promises to be considerable interest attached to the semiwind-up of eight rounds, with Frankie Fullam, the Catholic University ring idol, and K. O. Burns, Fred Barth's up and coming red-haired flash from Baltimore. Fullam recently whaled the daylight out of Sammy Britt, while Burns took Henry Irving in tow. As is customary, Catholic University will be well represented by its athletes as well as admirers of the former A. A. U. middleweight champion.

Fullam is unbeaten in his fifteen professional fights. An aggressive, adroit puncher, he is hailed as one of the District's finest 160-pound prospects.

Three good preliminaries are in store. Each is sceduled for four rounds. In the opener Barefoot Green, a rugged 170-pound boy, who was plucked out of the farm near Fredericksburg and has knocked nine of his opponents bow-legged, will tackle Johnny Perussi, of Walter Reed Hospital. Three bus loads of rooters will come to Portner's with him.

Bob Lowry, who is fast stepping into the class of hard punchers, will face Johnny Fredericks, of Baltimore. Cary Wright, who recently turned professional, will meet Mike Sipio, of Baltimore.

Portner's will be heated for the fights, and Matchmaker Mann announced that fans need have no fear of shivering through the program.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Burl to beat Schwartz, Fullam to beat Burns, Lowry to beat Fredericks, Wright to beat Sipio, Green to beat Perussi.

JOHNSON WEIGHS OFFER IN MINORS

ens and dogs. Numerous cats wander around the spacious grounds, and a cow and a calf add to pastoral touch.

"I was born and raised on a farm myself," Johnson said, explaining why he likes it there.

Around him as he talked was a strange assortment of trophies, filling tables and cupboards and overflowing onto the floor.

Nearby was a huge hamper-like silver trophy which Washington fans filled with 700 one-dollar bills and presented to him in 1913.

On the walls were pictures of Walter Johnson, posing with President Harding, President Hoover, Doug Fairbanks, Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, and a dozen other celebrities.

In his soft, drawling tones, Johnson made it clear that he does not hold with those who think baseball is going to pot.

"People will always be interested in baseball," he said.

But he added that the big leagues, if they are wise, will bolster the minor circuits to keep up interest in the game among the younger generation and to insure a steady supply of playing material.

Walter's face lighted up enthusiastically as he spoke of Joe Cronin, the 26-year-old shortstop star, who was picked by Clark Griffith to succeed him as manager.

"He's a fine boy and a good hustler," he said. "I'd like to see him go ahead and have a big year. I'll be pulling for him."

AT THE POST

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

Henry Hiser, the sage of Hyattsville, was looking over Bill Bennings' broad shoulders last night as he prepared this for you and the boys. Henry wants all his friends to know that his best bet, his triple XXX special, his good thing, his hot one and his cinch for today is Prometheus. I can't take the responsibility, however. I had only two winners Saturday but as two-a-day-keeps-the-boss-away I'm thankful enough. It's just today and tomorrow and then the books. Get yours, kid, while the getting's good. If, perchance, you're still with me, I'm letting you have these. BILL.

FIRST RACE—Except for the fact that TRUE SENTIMENT doesn't seem overly empowered with courage, this one is the logical choice in the first race. Quit before in as cheap a race, but may stick it out today. FELICIANA has been close lately. FAIR BILLY for third.

SECOND RACE — GOLDEN SHIP gets in this with light weight and probably will draw Hanford again. Scored impressively in New York and was beaten two lengths in only Maryland start. FEUDAL LORD rates just behind the top one and will be right there if mistakes are made. HOPE TO DO has a world of early speed and is dangerous.

THIRD RACE—MABLA doesn't get the worst of the weight assignments in this and seems to have a little class edge on the field. May not quit in this group. MOUNTAIN ELK is my surprise here. MY PURCHASE missed on a close decision the last time and can show.

FOURTH RACE—FINGAL has demonstrated his ability in Maryland this fall and the last attests to his fine shape. Has no choice of tracks and Danny Meade may lead from start to finish again. ZORANA looked pretty good to me the last time when Gilbert brought her home second. ST. OMER led a good field the other day after graduating from the maiden ranks.

FIFTH RACE—I have made SCOUT MASTER run second. Now let's give him a chance to take a purse. This one is sharp as a razor blade and improving with leaps and bounds. Must beat PARDEE, the probable favorite. RISQUE may be the third one. WATCH HIM, by winning Saturday forced himself out of the field, due to the conditions of the race.

SIXTH RACE—BOSCOBEL is right at tops and I look forward to cashing a bet. MISS CORRINE may wake up and spoil everything. WAR PLANE, fractious, but speedy, for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—ZENKA was well meant the last time, but something was wrong. THE CRANE and YANCEY may give the top one the battle.

Choice for Rose Bowl Game Narrows to 3

Los Angeles, Nov. 27 (A.P.).—The choice of the West for an opponent at the Tournament of Roses game here January 1 lay between three Eastern elevens, Michigan, Colgate and Pittsburgh, unofficial observers here believed today.

Although the Rose Bowl Association has not announced its choice of a Western team, the selection invariably goes to the champion of the Pacific Coast Football Conference, which is the University of Southern California, by virtue of its 9-to-6 victory over Washington Thanksgiving Day.

The Western team, after being selected by the Rose Bowl group, will be called upon to choose its own Eastern opponent. Michigan's championship team of the Big Ten has received considerable attention, despite the fact that a conference ruling prevents postseason games in the Midwestern Conference.

Northeast Boys Club Bows to Apaches, 13-0

Blocking a punt in the first period, the Apaches marched 35 yards to score the first of two touchdowns that enabled them to defeat the Northeast Boys Club, 13 to 0, in an Independent League game yesterday. The teams are in the 135-pound division.

A second blocked kick accounted for the final touchdown, Darmsted recovering the bounding pigskin and running 35 yards to score. Connelly tallied the first marker on a plunge from the 3-yard line.

The winning touchdown was scored in the second period on a 20-yard end run, with "Tuck" Dalglish carrying the ball. A 35-yard pass from Jakie Lewis to Moncure placed the ball in scoring position.

VARDON'S GREAT SHOT RECALLED BY HUNTER

Vardon played on one of the courses in Edinburgh with James Braid, J. H. Taylor and Sandy Herd. On one of the holes he had hooked his tee shot, his ball going over a hill and rolling down among some stones. To reach the green, which was about 150 yards from his ball, he had to play over the hill, and down the other side to the green.

He instructed his caddy to stand on the crest of the hill to give him the line. He called to his caddy for the distance of the hole from where the caddy was standing.

"Fifty-five yards," was the answer.

Again Vardon inquired:

"Fifty-five yards is right," his favorite caddy replied.

Vardon signaled the caddy out of the way, and played the shot with such terrific cut that his ball hit the green 6 feet beyond the pin and came back to within 1 foot of the hole.

I happened to be standing on the crest of the hill when this shot was executed.

(Tomorrow, in the third article of The Post's series, Cliff Spencer, Beaver Dam professional, will illustrate and explain the technique of his brassie shots.)

CENTENNALS EASY VICTORS.

Nick Crowley starred as the Centennial 125-pounders defeated the Pyramid eleven, 33 to 0, yesterday. The winners tackle the strong Anacostia Eagles next Sunday.

ARLINGTON LISTS DRILLS.

PRESTIGE REGAINED BY NOTRE DAME

Panthers' only score came on a short plunge by the great half back, Warren Heller. Pitt rolled up eleven first downs to three for Stanford and had a net gain of 190 yards by rushing, compared to twelve for the visitors.

A touchdown by Wally Myers in the second quarter and a safety in the final period, gave Texas Christian its victory over Southern Methodist and clear title to the Southwest Conference crown. Texas finished second and Rice, beating Baylor, 12 to 0, third.

Although more than a score of the Green Wave's squad, including Don Zimmerman, were out of the game with influenza or bad colds, Tulane put up a highly creditable showing against Louisiana State, coached by Capt. Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones. The Tigers counted twice in the first half, but thereafter were pretty well bottled up. Although L. S. U. finished its conference season without defeat, Auburn will be generally recognized as champion if the Alabama school finishes with a victory over South Carolina this week.

Duke was given a tussle by Washington and Lee, but won, 13 to 0; Holy Cross and Boston College played a scoreless tie; Washington and Jefferson counted twice on passes in the fourth period to down West Virginia, 13 to 0; Marquette spilled Drake, 45 to 0, and Colorado College beat Colorado Mines, 20 to 7.

NORTHEAST TROJANS WIN.

Northeast Trojans defeated Rock Creek, 12 to 6, in a hotly contested game played on the Monument grounds yesterday. "Yob" Keifer and "Slim" Harris starred for the winners.

Irish Governor General May Ignore Old Custom

Dublin, Irish Free State, Nov 27 (A. P.).—It was generally believed in government circles today that Donal Buckley, the new governor general of the Irish Free State, would not adhere to the ancient custom of going to London to kiss the king's hand in acknowledgment of his appointment.

The commission for his appointment was expected to be sent to Dublin by mail. This would be the first time in the parliamentary history of Great Britain, it was believed, that such procedure would be followed.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

W. H. "GOOSE" GOSNELL, Presbyterian College track star, Clinton, S. C., was the fourth best man in the high jump, but he took first place—and none of his competitors was disqualified. At the S. I. A. A. meet held in Memphis in 1931, Gosnell jumped 5 feet 11 inches, to force out three other men tied at 5 feet 10½ inches.

The three tied at 5 feet 10½ inches decided to jump again for second, third and fourth places. In the run-off jump they all tied again at 6 feet, making Gosnell winner with the fourth best jump.

To persons who have trouble finding their hats in dark rooms, or who are troubled by colliding with other pedestrians on dark nights, the luminous derby patented under U. S. Patent No. 273074, may prove useful. The specifications provide that the hat be covered with luminous paint, rendering it visible in the dark.

When in trouble, telephone for the police. That is exactly what "Sergeant Jack," a police dog in Salt Lake City, did several months ago when he found himself locked in a police substation. He knocked the telephone off the desk and whined into the mouthpiece. A frightened telephone operator connected him with police headquarters.

Driver Gone

Police Hunting Operator of Stolen Car After Smashup.

An overturned automobile, its seats spattered with blood, discovered at Blair road and Tuckerman street northwest, yesterday was found to be stolen, and the driver of the vehicle, although thought to be seriously injured, had not sought treatment at any hospital.

Lewis H. Bunnington, of 1919 Thirty-fifth street northwest, owner of the car, who reported it stolen Saturday night from a section of Takoma Park, recovered the car from police. The vehicle had run off the road and overturned, striking a tree.

Police received no clew as to the driver's identity at local hospitals. It is thought that, fearing arrest for stealing the automobile, the driver went to another city for treatment.

DR. HARRIS ASSAILS REPEAL MOVEMENT AS PACT WITH EVIL

Foundry Church Audience Is Told Compromise With Liquor Impossible.

An impassioned plea against the return of legalized liquor was rendered by the Rev. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris yesterday morning in his sermon at the Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church.

"Jesus as Judge" was the topic of the talk. Dr. Harris said in part:

"It has always been the business of the Christian religion to guard the shrine of human personality and to fight forces which seek to desecrate it. Wherever human values are involved, there Jesus belongs, and no "No Trespassing!" signs can keep Him out.

One-sided Question.

"There is no question as to where any church which is worthy to bear the name of Christ stands in the present attempt of sinister forces to restore the legalized liquor traffic. We are told that liquor is doing terrible things to men and women in spite of prohibition. Yes, it is, and it always will till the last vestige is stamped out. That is the nature of the beast. But, thank God, what it is doing to cripple and maim lives now it is doing as an outlaw.

"Blood Money."

"To legalize it, to wrap the Stars and Stripes around it, to change its status from that of an outlaw to a partner, to take blood money from its leprous hands, is for our Government to go in the same moral direction as if it allied itself with prostitution or opium, or any other traffic which degrades bodies and damns souls.

"That is why for over a century the Methodist Church has insisted with all the fierceness of crusading spirit that the liquor business can not be legalized without sin. 'What shall it profit a nation, even if it did balance its budget, if it loses its soul.'"

Cold Fails to Halt Model Home Trips

Many Persons Delighted After Inspection of Residence.

Sharp winter weather in no way reduced the number of visitors to The Washington Post model home yesterday. Throughout the day many persons were delighted by an inspection of this excellent display dwelling.

Built by the Cafritz Organization, The Post's model home is situated at 327 Emerson street northwest, and is one of a sightly group of Cafritz "lifetime homes," embodying all the excellent features that have given this organization an enduring reputation for good home building. The furniture and decorations by P. J. Nee Co., Inc., make the presentation doubly attractive.

The residence is a brilliant example of modern home planning. Every bit of it pleases and satisfies. In it, the Cafritz Organization, which has built more than 3,000 homes in the City of Washington, presents features thus far unheard of in dwellings at such low prices. The model home will be open every day from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night.

MATCH BORROWER ROBS MAN OF $135

Obliging Employe of Filling Station Held Up; Day's Profits Taken.

Fletcher is assistant manager of a gasoline filling station at New Hampshire avenue and M street northwest. It is a regulation of his company to take the day's receipts home after closing time.

Shortly after 10 o'clock last night Flecher decided to lock up and go home. He pocketed the day's profits, put out the lights and started down the street.

Near Twenty-first and O streets northwest Fletcher noticed an automobile parked at the curb. As he approached, a well-dressed young man stepped to the pavement and asked Fletcher for a match.

"Sure," said Fletcher, as he reached into his pocket, produced a match and, lighting it, held it toward the stranger's cigarette.

"O. K.," said the stranger, "now let's have your cash!"

Fletcher looked down to see a revolver in the man's hand. He reported to police that after rifling his pockets the man leaped to the waiting machine and the driver, already at the wheel, sped away. Fletcher said he was unable to obtain a good look at the second man.

He gave chase after the driver of the striking machine failed to stop. McDarries said, and overtook the fleeing car several blocks away.

He called Policeman Edward Sullivan and the driver was arrested. He said he was George Phillips, 35 years, of 1440 W street northwest. A charge of hit-and-run was placed against him.

YULE FUND CHECKS MAILED THIS WEEK

Banks Will Aid Shop-Early Drive by Distribution of Christmas Savings.

Cooperating with the Merchants and Manufacturers Association in its "Shop Early-Mail Early" campaign, to reduce last-minute rushes, Washington banks this week will begin mailing out checks to 100,000 Washingtonians representing $8,725,675 in Christmas savings funds, the largest total in the history of the Capital.

The Christmas savings funds plan has grown tremendously during the past few years, it is shown by figures reported by Eliot H. Thompson, of the District Bankers Association. In 1924 about $3,000,000 was saved, while in 1928 the total ran up to $7,000,000.

The chief factor, bankers state, in bringing about earlier distribution of these funds was the fact that in practically all cities retail merchants have recognized the tendency to earlier shopping and this season are placing their holiday stocks on sale much earlier than in former years.

ALBERT F. KUNZE.

D. C. PHILATELISTS TO HOLD EXPOSITION BEGINNING ON DEC. 5

Many Foreign Stamps Will Be Displayed in Unique Private Show.

Stamp collectors of Washington are busy preparing entries for a private exhibition to be held in the Washington Building from December 5 to 10, under the sponsorship of the Washington Philatelic Society. Officials in charge predict it will be the most unusual ever held in the Capital, and that many specimens of foreign stamps and many American items will be on display.

The exhibition will be formally opened at 8 p. m., Monday, December 5, by Albert F. Kunze, president of the Philatelic Society, following a dinner of the organization at the Madrillon Restaurant. Various school stamp clubs will be invited to attend the exhibit on Tuesday, December 6.

On Thursday evening, December 8, the division of dead letters of the Postoffice Department will conduct its annual auction sale of stamps accumulated during the year because of faulty addressing of mail. More than 100 separate lots will be sold to the highest bidders.

Baltimore Night Planned.

Baltimore Night will be celebrated on Friday, December 9, when the Philatelic Club of that city attends the exhibition under the leadership of Dr. Howard H. Warner, its president.

Private exhibits to be shown include the 1856 split provisionals of Mexico, to be exhibited by Col. Charles S. Hamilton, an international authority on the stamps of that country; the rare pairs and blocks of 1856-64 from the Cape of Good Hope, the property of Ernest Kletsch, curator of the union catalogue of the Library of Congress, and pioneer air mail covers and envelopes by Francis B. Leech, vice president of the National Air Mail Society.

Famous Penny Blacks.

Dr. Ellis Haworth, in charge of the natural science division of public schools here, will show a portion of his unusual collection of foreign commemorative stamps.

United States stamps, ranging from the early 1847's, still in original covers, through the departmentals and down to the recent commemoratives in plate blocks will be shown. A copy of the famous inverted air mail stamp of 1918, valued at several thousand dollars, will be included in the specialized frames of air mail stamps.

PLAYGROUND SANTA FACES HEAVY TASK

Firemen Helping Him So No Washington Child Shall Go Without Toy.

The Playground Santa Claus, who for more than a score of years has brought cheer to thousands of Washingtonians, will start filling his pack this week. As in the past he will have his headquarters in the office of the Department of Playgrounds, Room 313, District Building.

Side by side with the playground workers the public as usual finds Fire Chief Watson's brave laddies aiding the drive to save any child in Washington from a toyless Christmas. Any fire house in the District will accept toys, clothing or imperishable foods to be distributed by the Playground Santa.

Toys that have outlived their charm for the more fortunate youngsters and by use may have a few fractured joints or misplaced varnish, will be restored to usefulness by the fire fighters while waiting for the sound of the impelling gong.

Last year the Playground Santa took care of 5,124 individuals and Miss Sibyl Baker, supervisor of playgrounds, told the jolly old fellow that she hoped that his job would be less strenuous this year, but it appears that her hope was merely the father to the desire, as indications are already that the demands will be far greater than ever before.

The Playground Santa is cooperating with other organizations striving to make Christmas a happy time for all Washington. The personal contact that the Playground Santa has with thousands in the neighborhoods of Washington is one that is obtained through the play spaces where young and old have free recreation and unconsciously let their needs be known to the leaders who furnish them with their healthful entertainment.

The children and their parents who contribute do so from the point of view of saying "Merry Christmas" to their less fortunate playmates.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY TO GIVE ADDITIONAL RADIO TIME SERVICE

Broadcasts Will Be Hourly, Except Four Times Daily; Equipment Added.

The time service maintained by the United States Naval Observatory, the most accurate in the world, is to be augmented by additional equipment, now being installed, to enable the observatory to broadcast time signals every hour on the hour except four times a day, according to Capt. Frederick Hellweg, superintendent of the observatory. Under the present system, time signals are broadcast six times during each 24 hours.

Demands for accurate time service are growing steadily, Capt. Hellweg declares, and outstanding American achievements in science and industry would be impossible without it.

Tells Time by Stars.

The time signals broadcast at the present time are at midnight, 3 a. m., noon, 4 p. m., 7 p. m. and 10 p. m. When the new automatic equipment is completed the observatory will give signals every hour except at 8 a. m., 10 a. m., 2 p. m. and 9 p. m.

The observatory tells time by the stars, Capt. Hellweg explains. Deep in an insulated tile vault master clocks are kept under constant temperature and air pressure, all the year round, and these master clocks are synchronized with electric transmitting clocks outside the vault. The master clocks are carefully checked at set intervals against the positions of the stars.

Started in 1904.

The first time signal was broadcast by the Navy in 1904, but it was not until 1912, when the big station at Arlington was completed, that it was possible to broadcast time signals with sufficient power to reach around the world.
